Three Officials and Two

Under Dry Law.

CHARGES FOLLOWED
SEIZURE IN RAIDS

Real Beer Was Confiscated on Truck Leaving the Plant and in Brewery
Last July.

The Schorr-Kolschneider Brewing Co., a corporation, and five of its officers and employees were fined a total of $9000 today by Judge Davis on pleas of guilty of violation of prohibition laws. Pleas of guilty were entered to counts in an indictment charging manufacture, possession and transportation of beer and the maintenance of a nuisance. The defendants and their fines were: John J. Schorr, Clarence W. Schorr, Frederick W. Picht, $2500 each; the corporation, Walter H. Meyer and Joseph Riechenberger, $500 each. Another defendant, Albert S. Schorr, was ill and unable to be in court, but it was indicated he would plead guilty later.

Beer Taken in Raids.
The charges against the corporation and the six individuals resulted from raids on July 24 and July 26, last, in the first of which 40 barrels of real beer were seized on a truck leaving the brewery, at Parnell and Natural Bridge avenues, and on the second of which 32 more barrels of beer were seized in the plant. The three Schorrs and Picht furnished bonds of $2500 each at the time of the raids. They and the other two, and the corporation, were indicted on Sept. 12.

Officers of the company are: John J. Schorr, president; Albert S. Schorr, vice president; Clarence W. Schorr, secretary, superintendent and brewmaster; and Frederick W. Picht, treasurer. Meyer was a bookkeeper and Riechenberger was another employee.

The brewery had a Federal permit to manufacture nonalcoholic beverage by de-alcoholizing beer, and, therefore, was permitted to have real beer in its vats, but not in barrels or bottles. The 40 barrels seized in the truck held 672 gallons with an alcoholic content of 5.5 per cent.

Schorr-Kolschneider was one of the important independent plants here in pre-prohibition days. It was organized by the late Jacob R. Schorr and the late Henry W. Kolschneider. The latter, who did not become an American citizen until 1916, 45 years after he came to this country from Germany, where he was born, was a familiar figure in civic affairs for years, as an opponent of increase in taxation.

28 SAILORS ARE LOST WHEN BRITISH SHIP HITS ROCKS

All Hands on Freighter Perish as Gale Drives Vessel Onto Irish Coast.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—All hands on board the British freighter Cardiff Hall, 28 in number, were lost when the steamer Tuesday struck the southern point of Seven Heads, Clonakilly, and immediately went to pieces, according to Lloyd's Queenstown correspondent, who visited the scene of the disaster. The Cardiff Hall, which was a vessel of 2540 tons and was bound from Buenos Aires for Cork, hit the rocks at 9 o'clock in the evening.

Nothing of the ship was visible yesterday, although some wreckage, a small quantity of maize and two bodies were washed ashore.

"Broke" Miners Reward Landlady—Patient Will $25,000 to Nurse.

TONPAH, Nev., Jan. 15.—A few months ago Mrs. S. Bresnahan, keeper of a miners' boarding house here, took in two miners and gave them room and board until they could get money, on the strength of their story that they were "down on their luck."

The men went out and located some gold claims. They placed four of the claims in Mrs. Bresnahan's name. Without seeing the claims, she sold them for $7500 recently.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 15.—Miss Marie Bauman of San Jose, a nurse, who attended Eugene Bernheimer, wealthy silk importer, in the final years of his life, is bequeathed $25,000 in a will filed here by executors of the Bernheimer estate.

WITH PRAYER

Unanimously Adopts Resolution to This Effect at Suggestion of Methodist Pastor.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The Chicago City Council has unanimously adopted a resolution to open all future sessions with prayer. The resolution called attention to the fact that Congress, political conventions and most state legislatures always began sessions with prayers and stated it was fitting that Chicago Aldermen do likewise.

The resolution was adopted at the suggestion of the pastor of the First Methodist Church. The president of the Chicago Church Federation, the Catholic Archbishop and the president of the Rabbinical Association have been asked to act as a committee to arrange programs.

ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP

Shoe Company Official Resists and Holdsup Man Flee Without

G. P. Clark, cashier of the Rice & Hutchins Shoe Co., almost was kidnapped with a $1400 payroll in broad daylight at the busy corner of Thirteenth and Washington avenue at 3 p. m. today.

Clark was walking west from a Broadway bank to his office at 1403 Washington avenue. In front of No. 1200 an automobile was parked at the curb. A young man stepped out, seized Clark by the arms and tried to drag him in. Clark resisted and was knocked down, while the would-be kidnaper, stricken with panic, scrambled back into the machine without getting the money and with a companion drove rapidly north. Six persons reported the license number of the machine.

FOREST GIVES UP SKELETONS

By the Associated Press.
AMIENS, France, Jan. 15.—The remains of a German airplane and the skeleton of its pilot have been found in the forest of St. Pierre-Vaasi, near the French battle plane which was discovered by a squad of British soldiers last month. The French plane, in the debris of which there were two skeletons, has been identified as belonging to the 16th Squadron. Two machines of that unit collided while attacking a German plane on Sept. 24, 1916, and fell into the woods.

Never stop for an instant. This is January, but before long the trees will be green buds, and the days will be growing longer.

Then you'll get the motor. You'll want to get away from the city. You'll be in all winter, and you'll probably find that the prices of cars have risen above prices at which they can be bought now.

Now's the time to buy that car, especially if a good used car would interest you. In the classified "Automobiles" column, plenty of splendid used cars are offered. Don't wait. Investigate today.

Wichita Man Says He Paid

Davis.

ACCUSED BANK
COMMISSIONER QUILTS

Carl J. Peterson, Whose Name Is Linked With Scandal, Says Charges
Did Not Cause Resignation.

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 15.—Another charge that money was paid for a parole issued by former Gov. Jonathan M. Davis was added today to the accusations against the retired executive, his son, Russell G. Davis, and Carl J. Peterson, State Bank Commissioner, in connection with alleged trafficking in executive clemency.

The new case presented to the Attorney-General and the Shawnee County Attorney, who are conducting an investigation of the pardon scandal, involves the parole of Ernest Bartholomew, son of C. H. Bartholomew, wealthy Wichita merchant. The elder Bartholomew alleges in an affidavit he paid $1250 to a man named Johnson and received the parole for his son, who had been convicted of a motor car theft.

Johnson told him, Bartholomew states, that the "deal" would be handled through Carl J. Peterson, State Bank Commissioner, and that the money would be divided. $500 to Gov. Davis, $500 to Peterson and $250 to Johnson.

Bartholomew states he told Johnson at a Topeka hotel he had only $500 and would have to give his check for the remainder of the $1250.

Gave Three Notes.

The affidavit continues: "After that he went to his room and drew up three notes for $250 each, payable to a bank in Ponca City, Ok., where he said he had a brother working. After that he went away, was gone awhile and then came back and told us he had some good news for us and that the notes would be acceptable. I believe myself and my daughter-in-law went to his room and signed these notes. I am not sure whether we signed the notes before he went out or afterward. At any rate, we signed them in his room."

"I kept the notes all right myself. The next morning we went to the State House together, and as we entered I took the notes and $500 in bills which were in an envelope and handed them to Johnson."

Bartholomew states that following Johnson's instructions he went to the Governor's outer office and waited there until Peterson came in, entered the Governor's room and then departed. Thereupon, Bartholomew says, he was admitted into the Governor's room, where Davis quickly issued the parole.

At a hearing the day before, Gov. Davis indicated he would not act favorably on his son's parole application, Bartholomew states, and Johnson had told him the boy would not be paroled unless the money was paid.

Peterson is charged in another affidavit, made by A. L. Oswald, Hutchinson attorney, with having solicited money for a parole for Walter Grundy, bank wrecker.

Peterson Resigns.
In a letter to Gov. Paulen today, Peterson resigned his post as Bank Commissioner, and said the action was merely a fulfillment of his promise to Paulen six weeks ago to quit if the new Governor desired his resignation. He declared he was ignoring the demand of Attorney-General C. B. Griffith that he resign or face outer proceedings.

Bartholomew's letter to Griffith, Peterson said he would welcome the filing of criminal charges against him in the courts. Peterson's term would have expired April 1.

Edward Reoney, Assistant County Attorney, was preparing to issue subpoenas today for persons linked with the cases under investigation. The County Attorney's office, it was announced, will conduct a formal inquiry and question witnesses in preparation for the prosecution of former Gov. Davis and his son on the charges of accepting a bribe for a pardon issued to Fred W. Pollman, convicted banker and politician, with a view to instituting criminal actions if the evidence warrants.

BISHOP BROWN DEPOSED FROM HIS HIGH OFFICE

Sentence by Episcopal Board of Review Now Goes to House of Bishops for Action.

DEFENDANT MADE
PLEA FOR ACQUITTAL

Asked for Reversal of Verdict Against His Beliefs and Stated Confession of Faith.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 15.—Deposition from office was determined as a suitable sentence for the Rt. Rev. William Montgomery Brown, retired Bishop of Arkansas, by the Protestant Episcopal church board of review today.

The penalty carried with it affirmation of the trial last May when Bishop Brown was convicted of heresy. The sentence cannot be put into effect until approved by the House of Bishops, which meets in New Orleans next autumn.

Bishop Brown's Plea.
Bishop Brown today made a plea in his own behalf for reversal of the verdict which found him guilty of heresy. His prepared address follows:

"Brethren of the review court: I thank you for allowing me to speak on my own behalf. I shall refer to just one episode of my appearance before the trial court in the hope of securing for it the influence of your deliberations upon the issue of your deliberations."

"I was asked if I believed in the creed, and I said I did. Then I repeated the Apostles' creed, subscribing to it with uplifted hand as each man should renew his faith in life and life here."

"Feeling that you would be lacking in the patience and I to the strength necessary to extended remarks on this subject, I made a lengthy appeal and plea to your court in a printed memorial, and, believing that you will do me the justice of carefully weighing its representations, I can at this time content myself with repeating that confession of my faith."

His Belief in God.
"I believe in God."

"Not to be sure, in a God with arms and legs, and with the human attributes which we call personality; but in the All-in-All, in whom we live and move and have our being, and to whose laws we must all conform if we are to attain the highest good of life."

"I believe in God, the Father Almighty."

"Not to be sure, in a literal, biological sense, is my God a Father. Not being with masculinity, as every father must literally be, I use the word symbolically—a precious symbol of the infinite reality which has brought us and all things into beings as parts of itself."

"Maker of Heaven and Earth."
"Maker of heaven and earth."

"Not to be sure, a manufacturer or sculptor, as the minds which have created the world and the human race are infinitely more complex than these, and the symbol 'maker' must be applied to those universal laws which govern infinite cycles of change, of which their great but ignorant minds were wholly unaware."

"And I believe in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord."

"Once again, not literally. In matter of history, I must be guided by the researches of historians, who are necessarily ruthless in their criticisms of ecclesiastical lore. Nevertheless, regardless of what conclusions historians shall reach, I accept and reverence the symbol of the Son of God—the human manifestation of all that is true and beautiful and good."

"Born of the Virgin Mary."
"Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary."

Not literally, of course. Modern biology has made the literal acceptance of this belief impossible for any of us; but, in stripping us of this literal interpretation, it has released the symbol for greater usefulness.

I believe in Jesus, not less than do the literalists, whether modernists or fundamentalists, but more. Jesus, to me, is more than a historical character, and more than a third term in an ancient theological equation. Whatever this court does, it cannot strip me of my belief in Jesus. I see in Jesus the man of sorrows—every man of sorrows from the first dawn of

'OLD-FASHIONED'
MOTHER IS SLAIN

16-Year-Old San Francisco Girl Shoots Parent in Back After Quarrel Over Late Hours.

GOES TO PARTY
AFTER KILLING

Revels Had Caused Separation of Father and Mother, Who Defended Her Against His Accusations.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Dorothy Ellington, 16 years old, shot and killed her "old-fashioned" mother, Mrs. Anna Ellington, 47, because she objected to her daughter staying out late at night with companions of whom she did not approve, according to the girl's confession to police. The mother had chided her daughter and at times had resorted to whippings. Mrs. Ellington was shot down from behind Tuesday as she stooped over to lace her shoes.

Dorothy was arrested today in a rooming house. Under a severe grilling she broke down and made a full confession.

"Yes, I did it," she said. "Mother and I had a quarrel Monday night when I came in. She told me that I must quit going out with men and get a job. I told her I wouldn't."

"Tuesday morning when we woke up we renewed the quarrel. I finally got up and got my brother's revolver and went into her bedroom and shot her."

Girl Kept Diary.
Woven into the case also is a diary kept by the girl which frankly chronicled both her thoughts and deeds as opposed to the efforts of her mother.

The diary entries reveal, step by step, first the mental then the physical rebellion against parental "old-fashionedness," which first prohibited her from attending the movies with girl friends and finally protested in vain against all-night parties with astringent orgies.

Some of the entries read: "July 10: Mother is dreadfully old-fashioned and strict. Why won't she even let me go to the movies with other girls?"

"July 15: Mother whipped me when she found out I had gone to a dance instead of to Ruth's house. But it was worth it."

"July 18: Guess I'm outta luck when boy friends can't even call on me at our house."

Stayed Home After Whipping.
"Aug. 23: Met H. and K.; had a fine feed. Nice fellows. Time, P. P. J. and I went to the beach later and got drunk."

"Aug. 24: Out on a hot-time party with Ben and the gang. When it was all over I was all in."

"Aug. 24: Another whipping, but stayed home. Won't stand for any other one. Will do as I please henceforth and live where I please. Tuesday another auto ride and lots of drinks. Big time."

The automobile rides, big times, drinks, when parental discipline failed, brought a threat of the reform school, made by the mother Tuesday.

AT PARTY AFTER KILLING.

Tuesday night while her brother and father were finding the body of the mother and wife in the cottage, Dorothy went to a party, she told police. She was accompanied by Dave Stein. He took her home about midnight but as they neared the house she told him she was not living there any longer and he took her to her rooming house.

Wednesday she had telephoned another youth and when told he was not in left a call for "Dorothy Daneri."

This man did not recognize the phone number given or the name "Daneri," but told the police, who traced the call and arrested the girl.

Killing of the mother was also the climax of a family quarrel which caused the girl's father to sever the family ties after an argument over the propriety of his daughter's associates. The mother defended her daughter against the accusations made by the father, but after he left the family she became converted to his views, police said.

Young Man Declares He Had Been Begging, Although Wearing Good Clothes.

The door was flung open and a young man stood on the threshold of the Standard Oil filling station at Taylor avenue and Page boulevard. His coat collar enveloped his chin and his cap hung low over his eyes.

"Up with 'em," he said, pointing a revolver at Manager Homer Hisey, seated at his desk making his day's report. So far a typical oil station "stick up."

Then a hand shot out from behind the open door and gripped the intruder's pistol hand. Hisey rose to his feet. The youth tried to tear himself free and a man stepped from behind the door, with a police revolver in his hand. The youth wrenched loose and stumbled back, trying to point his revolver. The man fired three shots in close succession. The youth dropped his weapon.

"Sit, please. I got enough," he said, and collapsed on the floor.

On Watch for Hour.
The man behind the door was Patrolman Henry C. Staake of Daez Street District. He had been sitting there in civilian clothes for an hour, since 6 p. m., on Capt. Hannegan's order. The station had been robbed several times recently and last night Capt. Hannegan had a "hunch."

The youth was taken to city hospital with a bullet wound in each thigh. His condition is serious, but not critical. To questioners he described himself as John Bratton, 19 years old, but detectives think he is concealing his real identity.

"I came from San Diego three days ago and have been begging on Grand avenue," he said, but he is doubted, because his garments were purchased on Easton avenue and are of better quality than a beggar should wear.

Natches in Revolver Barrel.
His revolver is an old weapon with four notches filed in the barrel. "I found that thing," he said. "This is my first job and I run up against hard luck. Those notches don't mean anything to me."

Staake is 41 years old and lives at 3870 Gravoia avenue. He has been on the force 15 years.

SENATE RETURNS HYDE JOB LIST TO BAKER

Democrats Yield to Governor's Request and Send Back Recess Appointments.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 15.—Gov. Baker today received from the Senate a list of recess appointments which he had sent to the Senate for confirmation.

The Governor today, in a special message, asked the Senate to return to his office all the names sent in by Hyde. The Democratic Senators recessed the Senate and had a caucus, in which they agreed to comply with the governor's request. The effect of the action is to place in Baker's hands the fate of all the Hyde appointments, who were not confirmed by the Senate in 1922, which means an uncertain fate for all employees in most of the offices filled by appointment by the Governor. The Democratic Senators recessed the Senate and had a caucus, in which they agreed to comply with the governor's request. The effect of the action is to place in Baker's hands the fate of all the Hyde appointments, who were not confirmed by the Senate in 1922, which means an uncertain fate for all employees in most of the offices filled by appointment by the Governor.

There was some disposition to retain the name of C. P. Anderson, appointed by Hyde to succeed State Grain and Warehouse Commissioner Atkinson, but the final decision was to give the Governor a free hand in appointments, and to permit him to name whom he pleased.

"The responsibility belongs to the Governor," one Senator said, "and there is no reason why one should interfere with him. This, of course, does not go to the question of confirmation. We will pass on the merits of the appointments Baker selects. This only means we will not attempt to force on him appointments of his predecessor, whom he may not wish to retain in office."

The Governor issued the following brief statement concerning his message of withdrawal:

"I am today requesting the Senate to return to me all vacation appointments now in the hands of the Senate for confirmation. I trust that the Senate will see fit to return the appointments to me. This will afford opportunity for future consideration of appointments, also opportunity to confer with the members of the Senate and others regarding the qualifications of such appointees."

RAY RENARD AGAIN TAKES THE STAND AGAINST EGANITES

Steel Shutters Cover Court-

HALLIDAY TESTIFIES FOR PROSECUTION

Former Broker Tells of Conference at Maxwellton Inn Regarding Mail Robbery Loot.

Ray Renard, former Egan gangster, and prisoner in Atlanta Federal penitentiary, who has twice before broken the gang law by testifying against his former pals, was called as a witness this afternoon in the second trial of "Dinty" Colbeck and seven others, four of whom are now serving 25-year terms at Leavenworth prison, in Federal Court.

The eight defendants are charged with the $260,000 downtown mail robbery of April 2, 1923. Renard testified against them in their first trial last November, in which the jury disagreed, and his testimony was an important factor in convicting Colbeck and four of the others of the $24,000 mail robbery at St. Louis, Mo., for which they are now serving 25-year terms at Leavenworth.

Stylishly Dressed.
For a man on a holiday from prison, Renard was well, even stylishly dressed. He had on a new brown suit, with black shoes, white collar and tie, and the corner of a handkerchief appeared from his upper coat pocket.

Entering the room from the rear with a postoffice inspector, he sat down without looking directly at the defense group, and he did not turn his gaze directly toward them, even when he was asked to identify them.

Instead, he gave them a sidelong glance as he recited their names, beginning with the leader, Colbeck.

He showed no great nervousness. He can hardly add, at this time, to the weight of the offense he has already committed against the gang code, and the Government has taken great precautions for his safety. The windows on the Olive street side of the courtroom, and the windows of the ante-room, were covered with heavy steel shutters, proof against gunfire, and the courtroom was almost empty of spectators, only a few persons having been admitted to seats which would accommodate hundreds.

Renard's testimony followed closely in substance and even in wording, that which he gave at the previous trial of this case. He said that late in March, 1923, at the Maxwellton Club in St. Louis County, he heard of the plans for the mail truck robbery. "Sticky" Hennessy, he said, was the man who related that the gang planned to "go" in the robbery the night of April 1-2. Before that, Renard said, he had known there was a plan for such a robbery, but had not known the time or the place.

Intended. The place was Fourth and Locust streets. Colbeck told all the gang to get ready, Renard said, "as the robbery was about to start. Hennessy and one (Oliver) Hamilton, in a barroom west of Wallston. They asked him to 'handle' the securities taken in the robbery, he said, and arranged a meeting for the day at the Maxwellton Inn. Cronin took him to Maxwellton in a coupe, and he met Schmidt, Tipton and Smith. "I believe they call him 'Red' Hennessy," the witness said as to the last-named. He also met Colbeck, but the gang leader did not take part in any conference with him.

Halliday said that there told him that "Whitey" Doering had failed to appear with the bonds, and they arranged that Halliday should go to Doering's house in Richmond Heights the next day, April 5. He rode there from University City with Cronin, Schmidt, Smith and others, and Doering dumped the stolen securities out of a grip upon a bed. Those present at the time, he said, were Cronin, Schmidt, Smith, Tipton, Ryan, Hennessy and Hamilton.

He said there was a "vast quantity" of the bonds, particularly for Federal Land Bank bonds. The latter amounted to $2,000,000 in denomination, but lacked three signatures needed to make them negotiable, and Halliday told the men he could not "handle" the land bank bonds. The others, which he thought he could dispose of, included Industrial and Liberty bonds. "I agreed to 'move' them," he said.

Tells of Splitting Money.
Halliday then told of his negotiations with John Dummeyer, a stock broker who has pleaded guilty to complicity in the case, and of two trips to Chicago, meeting Dummeyer in Chicago the first time. He told of getting $18,000 from the proceeds of bond sales made by Dummeyer, and of taking $6000 of it to a meeting with seven of the gangsters used, surrounded by people. This was after the shooting of Deputy Constable Edward Neu, whose murder was an incident of the gang movements on that day. Neu was shot when he stopped a speeding machine. Renard said he went to Maxwellton and told Colbeck of what he had seen and that Colbeck appeared angry that he had not gone back to investigate.

He told of a later meeting with the Eganite defendants and Schmidt at Maxwellton Inn, and said Colbeck objected to the presence in the party of the automobile "used in the job." At this meeting, he said, Schmidt handed a chip basket to Colbeck, saying, "Here's the bonds." Renard did not see what was in the basket. Renard also identified, as Colbeck's property, one of the rifles taken from "Whitey" Doering's home.

Those on trial here, besides Colbeck, are "Chippy" Robinson, "Red" Smith, Oliver Dougherty and Steve Ryan, all serving time with Colbeck at Leavenworth; Roy Tipton, Cuckoo gangster, Leo Cronin and "Feather-Edge" Schmidt.

Halliday Testifies.
George V. Halliday, broker, who is under two penitentiary sentences amounting to eight years on convictions of forgery and embezzlement in the State courts, and who has been an inmate of the City Sanitarium since last April, testified today.

As in the former trial, the defense endeavored to impeach Halliday as a witness on the ground that he is not of sound mind, and the jury was excused while Halliday went over his testimony. Judge Paris then decided, as before, that Halliday was a competent witness, and the jury was recalled to hear him.

Halliday appeared composed, and even seemed somewhat better by the proceedings. He used an almost disdainful tone when he spoke of the gangsters by name.

He showed aptitude with figures, and unusual memory as to such details of the case. When questioned by the defense as to the reason for his being in the Sanitarium, he said his case had been diagnosed as paresis, but that he believed it might have been a mistake in the diagnosis.

Tells of Meeting Gangsters.
Halliday related that on April 3, the day after the robbery, he met by the proceedings. He used an almost disdainful tone when he spoke of the gangsters by name.

He showed aptitude with figures, and unusual memory as to such details of the case. When questioned by the defense as to the reason for his being in the Sanitarium, he said his case had been diagnosed as paresis, but that he believed it might have been a mistake in the diagnosis.

"and I think Ryan, Hennessy and Hamilton."

He said, when outlining his testimony in the jury's absence, that he and Walter A. Kelly kept $12,000 of the $18,000 obtained from Dummeyer, and divided it. Later, he said, he got $6000 from Anthony J. Schmidt of Chicago for other bonds, the Chicago man keeping $2000 of the $11,000 he had obtained, and he and Kelly kept $3000 of this. He said he met Cronin in a saloon downtown and gave him $6000.

Bond Salesman on Stand.
John H. Niedringhaus, bond salesman, testified before Halliday. He was a nervous witness, and hit his lips as he looked apprehensively at the gang group and repeated his story, told at the former trial, of his part in "moving" the stolen bonds.

He said that David Weisman, who is now serving 25 years in Atlanta prison, asked him to aid in disposing of the bonds, and took him on April 4, two days after the robbery, to the home of "Whitey" Doering in Richmond Heights. Doering was convicted with Weisman later, on Niedringhaus' testimony chiefly, and was killed in a fight while at liberty on appeal bond.

He said Doering went upstairs in his home and brought down a suitcase containing bonds taken in the robbery. Niedringhaus looked them over and made a list of those which he considered salable.

On the occasion of that visit to Doering's, the witness said, he saw Ryan and Robinson there. These were the only ones of the present defendants implicated directly by Niedringhaus' testimony. Niedringhaus knew Colbeck, and saw him at Maxwellton Inn, but not at Doering's.

Niedringhaus told of going to Kansas City in the attempt to escape from the gangsters, but said Weisman allowed him there and induced him to return to St. Louis. It was through Niedringhaus' attempts to dispose of the stolen bonds, and his arrest, that Doering and Weisman were first implicated. In a raid on Doering's house April 19 most of the loot was recovered by Government officers.

MEININGER CONVICTED REVERSED BECAUSE OF FAULTY INSTRUCTION

not the instruction assumed that a crime had been committed. We think it did assume such disputed fact."

Judge Blair also pointed out that the instruction had been atacked as a comment upon the evidence. "Instruction upon the evidence," he said, "is not proper in cases too numerous to require citation," he said, "and so far as we are aware, no case was ever reversed for the giving of such instruction in proper form, even including the supposed presumption of guilt arising from unexplained flight until the very recent case of State against Hogan. In which the flight instruction in Hogan's case was held to be erroneous because it told the jury that flight raised a presumption of guilt."

The Hogan case was another notable one reversed on defective instructions prepared by the Circuit Attorney's office of St. Louis. The case was that of James Hogan, brother of Edward Hogan, leader of the "Hogan gang" of St. Louis. Hogan's conviction and 15-year sentence for alleged participation in the robbery of a bank messenger was reversed and remanded, and he later was acquitted on a second trial.

In his opinion Judge Blair pointed out that the death sentence of Spencer Jordan, St. Louis negro, for killing a St. Louis city detective was recently reversed and remanded for new trial on a defective flight instruction. Following that decision the Post-Dispatch on Dec. 24 last, pointed out that an identical flight instruction was given in the Meininger case with the exception of the crime and the description of the names and that a reversal of the conviction would result if the Supreme Court followed its ruling in the Jordan case.

One of the points raised by the defense on appeal was that the State did not prove that the $174,677 in "cash items" transactions which formed the basis of the embezzlement charges, was converted to Meininger's own use and did not show that he received any personal benefit from the transactions. Several of these transactions were unsecured loans to Meyer Katz of St. Louis, and were carried on the bank books as "cash items."

"We do not think it necessary," Judge Blair wrote, "for the State to show, or for the jury actually to find, that Meininger (Meininger) in fact got any of the money."

From the instructions given by the trial judge, Blair continued, "It is evident that he submitted the case to the jury upon the theory that the appellant did not convert the money of the bank to his own use, unless he actually obtained part of the money or received some benefit therefrom. The trial court doubtless took the view that the circumstances in the case tended to show that appellant actually received and converted to his own use a part of the money turned over to Katz or received some benefit therefrom and such fact may fairly be inferred from all the circumstances in evidence."

Checks Equivalent to Cash.
Another point raised by the defense was that the indictment alleged the embezzlement of United States money and that the proof did not actually show it was United States money.

"There is no merit in the contention," Judge Blair stated. "The cashier's checks shown to have been given by defendant to Katz were merely the vehicles by which the money was withdrawn from the bank and put in possession of Katz. They were the equivalent of money because Katz received money or credit upon the same and, by reason of such checks, the amount of money in the bank or in deposit to its credit in other banks was diminished."

The defense also claimed error on the ground the State introduced in the trial evidence concerning alleged acts of embezzlement other than those charged in the indictment.

"We think admission of evidence tending to show other acts of embezzlement was proper in this case," Judge Blair wrote. "Appellant (Meininger) admitted that Katz obtained large sums of money and that the withdrawal of at least part thereof was covered by cash items which concealed the actual transactions of similar character at about the same time with persons other than Katz. Such other transactions were admissible to characterize the acts for which appellant was being tried."

Judge Blair continued, "Appellant (Meininger) admitted that Katz obtained large sums of money and that the withdrawal of at least part thereof was covered by cash items which concealed the actual transactions of similar character at about the same time with persons other than Katz. Such other transactions were admissible to characterize the acts for which appellant was being tried."

Slender Says Ruling Is Proof Court Procedure Needs Revising.

Circuit Attorney Sidney sees in the Meininger decision, today but another proof of the necessity for revision and standardization of straight-forward instructions, prepared according to approved rules, any he used in all courts of the State.

"It shall not criticize the Supreme Court for its action today," Sidney said, "but it shows the necessity of revising the rules for instructions so that criminals cannot escape on such technicalities. At present the whole procedure of court instructions is more or less a means of opening the way for criminals to escape."

"It seems almost impossible to draw an instruction which is sure to hold. The flight clause was prepared for the Meininger instruction. Since then, the two cases deal with assenting to the reception of deposits in an insolvent bank and the flight clause was omitted as irrelevant."

Sidener is chairman of the State Committee of Prosecuting Attorneys which is considering now a plan for the revision of court procedure. He stated today he would endeavor to have the prosecutors and the Criminal Code Committee of the Bar Association get together and discuss ways and means for eliminating technicalities in criminal instructions.

LEAGUE A LIVE CORPSE, HAMILTON HOLT SAYS

Speaking Here, He Declares Senate Blocks Moves for Amicable Relations.

Through seven presidential administrations the United States Senate has been the stumbling block of all efforts toward amicable international relations, declared Hamilton Holt, author, former editor of The Independent, and World Court advocate, speaking before the faculty and student body of Washington University today.

"Since the days of Cleveland various attempts have been made to establish international relations and each time they suffered an irreparable setback in the Senate," he said. "The Senate voted against Cleveland's treaties, they defeated McKinley's plan, they forced Roosevelt to withdraw his 20 proposals, they discouraged Taft, and it is common knowledge what happened to Wilson's League of Nations and that the Senate paid no attention to Harding's dying breath."

"The question of international relations is now the solemn pledge of the Republican party, but if anything is done it will be done by Democrats."

League a Live Corpse.
"The World Court is the first step toward world peace. Theoretically, peace is the outcome of justice, justice the outcome of law, law the outcome of political organization. For peace we must first have a political organization of the nations of the world. We must get behind national boundaries with our courts and laws, and eventually international law must rule the world."

Holt described the United States as "the Rhode Island of the World," pointing out that Rhode Island was the last State to ratify the Constitution in 1790, almost two years after the other states had approved it.

"We are told the League of Nations is dead," he declared. "Well, then, the League of Nations is the live corpse we have at this time. Eventually the United States must go in."

A Worker for Peace.
Holt is a member of the Executive Committee of the League of Nations Nonpartisan Association and lectures here and elsewhere at the behest of that organization. He has been active in a host of peace movements and in 1918 visited all the battle fronts of the allied armies as the official guest of the various governments. When the covenant of the league was drafted he was in Paris as head of the League to Enforce Peace and later made several lecture tours on behalf of the league. Recently he ran for the United States Senate on a world court platform.

The address at Washington University is Holt's only public appearance of his present visit to St. Louis. He will remain here informally until Saturday.

BULLET PROOF CAGE FRUSTRATES HOLDUP

Cashier at U. R. Sheds Jumps
In Place and Robbers' Shots Are Useless.

Two robbers, who sought to hold up the cashier at the United Railways car sheds at 6700 Manchester avenue, about 1:10 o'clock last night, were frustrated when the cashier—Charles F. Briggs of 6651 Barmier avenue—jumped into the bullet-proof steel cage provided for him, slammed the self-locking door and literally told the robbers to "go to hell."

One of the robbers thereupon pulled the trigger of his automatic pistol and a bullet entered the cage against the door. The only tangible result was the summoning of the night watchman, who heard the report and came running, revolver in hand. By the time the two robbers were rushing out the door, the watchman pursued them and fired a shot as they climbed in a Ford coupe and escaped.

The watchman, however, obtained the license number of the automobile, which proved to have been one reported stolen at 5 p. m. by Fred W. Duencel, 2913 Ellendale avenue. Duencel said two men, with pistols, climbed on the running boards as he drew up in front of 2535 Pine boulevard, and ordered him to vacate the driver's seat. One of them took the wheel and drove to Threan and Pine, where they ordered him out, first obtaining his telephone number. "We need your car for a little job," one of them remarked. "Well, telephone you where to find it when we're through."

Four Robbers at Hotel Got Money and Jewelry.

Four youthful-looking robbers, armed and with caps drawn down over their eyes, entered the office of the Columbia Hotel at 3535 Morgan street, about 11 o'clock last night and held up the proprietress, Miss Mabel Hanna, and two guests, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clouser.

The victims were forced to stand with backs to a wall and arms up-lifted, while two of the robbers stood guard. From Miss Hanna the other two robbers took $455, a check for $200, and stripped her rings of diamonds worth $475. From Mrs. Clouser they obtained $17 and five rings, valued at $675. Departing, the robbers were seen to disappear in a Ford sedan automobile.

At 1:29 a. m. four men were seen to drive a Ford sedan automobile from the drug store of Otto Kring at 1801 Morgan street. Two policemen, whose suspicions were aroused, sought fruitfully to halt them by firing shots. Investigating, they found the door of the store open. They summoned the proprietor who found the robbers had carried off a small safe. It contained a small quantity of narcotics and some insurance papers. A lone armed robber entered the army goods store, conducted by Mrs. Bertha Coplan at 7106 South Broadway, about 8 p. m. Mrs. Coplan was alone in the store, and the robber took $33.45 from the cash register and escaped.

MATRIMONY AGENT CONVICTED

Kept Transportation Money Sent for Mail-Order Wives.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 15.—Ernest E. Swartz, self-styled promoter of marriages, was convicted in Federal Court yesterday of using the mails to defraud. Swartz was brought to trial when lonely men, most of whom lived in the great open spaces of the West, complained they had sent money and railroad tickets to mail-order wives who had failed to appear. Testimony was that the marriage promoter sent photographs of motion-picture stars, accompanied by an alluring note, to bachelors who advertised in a St. Paul matrimonial journal, and kept the transportation money which they sent.

GAMBLING LOSSES NOT EXEMPT

Cannot Be Deducted From Income in States Where Illegal.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Those who gamble must pay the Government, win, lose or draw.

The Board of Tax Appeals recently held that persons who win in gaming operations must pay an income tax on their winnings and today Solicitor Harston of the Internal Revenue Bureau ruled that losses are not deductible from gross income in states where games of chance are illegal.

Try This on Your Catarrh

Ordinary methods of treating catarrh are failures simply because they do not reach the affected areas. You've got to beat those raw, tender spots that are hidden away where liquids and sprays never touch them. The best and most effective method is to inhale the vapor of "Deo" each night and morning.

Gently heat a spoonful of "Deo" in a tin plate and draw in deep breaths of the pleasant, soothing vapor. This penetrates every nook and corner, destroying germs and gradually healing inflamed membranes. Night after night you will feel better. Having and using will insure and your head will be clear.

"Deo" is the trade name of Dennis' Eucalyptus Ointment—composed entirely of eucalyptus, healing oils. Sold in 50c jars or tubes by leading druggists everywhere. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back. Dennis Eucalyptus Ointment Co., makers, Berkeley, Cal.

ENGLAND'S WOMAN BOOKMAKER
ARRIVES IN U. S. FOR VACATION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—England's only woman bookmaker arrived here yesterday to spend a vacation at Palm Beach. She is Mrs. Helen Vernet. Mrs. Vernet is from one of the oldest families in England. She is long past the voting age, but could easily be taken for a girl of 24. She has charm and it was this and her magnetism that gained her many friends when she ran a fashionable modiste shop and urged her to become a bookmaker.

She said yesterday on board the Mauretania, that she couldn't make money fast enough in the modiste business and decided to follow the horses. She handles more than $25,000,000 in bets at the race tracks in Great Britain, as a broker for Ladbroke & Co., largest turf commissionaires in the world. "I am here for a vacation," she said. "After a few days in New York to see what it is like I am going to Palm Beach to get some sunbathing. I love it and I want to forget things."

SAYS FATHER WAS UNKIND TO FAMILY

Daughter of J. A. Worthington Testifies Against Parent.

James A. Worthington, wealthy St. Louisan, was unkind to members of his family, and cruel to his 20-year-old daughter, Mrs. Grace O'Neill, charged yesterday. Harriet O'Neill, charged yesterday in testimony at Clayton in the suit to enjoin her father from having custody of his seven minor children.

Worthington made his children do farm work that overtaxed their strength, refused them any light at night, and forbade some of them to read newspapers on the grounds "a woman's mind things to read," Mrs. O'Neill testified.

"One time, when I was just a small child, he grabbed a pet puppy of ours, opened a furnace door and threw the dog into the roaring flames," she continued.

"He used to boast about how he killed the neighbors' dogs, and made soap out of them. One summer he killed 16 of them, making soap which he forced us to use, although he had some special soap for his own use. However, he did not believe much in washing and he told us not to wash or comb our hair, saying it was unnecessary."

Remarks alleged to have been made by Worthington on the day his first wife, mother of his eight children, died, were quoted by the witness.

On another occasion, shortly before this date, Worthington returned an insurance policy, intended for Mrs. Worthington, to the insurance company, remarking that the company was "too particular how a woman dies," according to the witness.

Worthington has been twice married since his first wife's death. He divorced his second wife and now is said to be in New Orleans with his third. He has property to the extent of $100,000, according to Miss Grace Worthington, who has been guardian of the minor children since 1920.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 15.

Fifty airplanes of the new standard observation type, to cost a total of approximately $750,000, have been ordered by the Government from the Douglas Co., builders of the around-the-world cruises, and a force of 250 men will be put to work on the contract at the company's plant here at once, it is announced by H. H. Witzel, plant manager.

The new type observation plane, the Douglas XO, was recently adopted by the United States Air Service to replace the Havilland type in present use. It is a standard biplane with a wing spread of 39.5 feet, of the two-plane corps observation design equipped with machine guns for combat. Wing construction is of standard wood and fabric type, but the fuselage is entirely of tubular steel and the duralumin, with a four-bolt demountable engine section. With a standard 400 horsepower Liberty motor, the XO is nearly 30 miles an hour faster than the De Havilland, though capable of landing at a speed 10 miles slower than the De Havilland landing speed, it is said.

Another group, regularly $7 to $9. Special price, $5.75.

FATHER WAS
UNKIND TO FAMILYDaughter of J. A. Worthington
Testifies Against Parent.James A. Worthington, wealthy of St. Louis, was unkind to members of his family, and cruel to his 20-year-old daughter, Mrs.
Charles O'Neill, charged yesterday.
In testimony at Clayton in the suit of her sister, Miss Grace Worthington, 22, to obtain her father from having custody of his seven minor children.Worthington made his children do farm work that overtaxed their strength, refused them any light at night, and forbade some of them to read newspapers on the ground that a woman's mind is too low to determine the right things to read," Mrs. O'Neill testified."One time, when I was just a small child, he grabbed a pet puppy of ours, opened a furnace door and threw the pup into the roaring flames," she continued."He used to boast about how he killed the neighbors' dogs, and made soap out of them. One summer he killed 86 of them, making soap which he forced us to use, although he had some special soap for his own use. However, he did not believe much in washing and he told us not to wash or comb our hair, saying it was unnecessary."Remarks alleged to have been made by Worthington on the day his first wife, mother of his eight children, died, were quoted by the witness. This was on Jan. 17, 1926. On another occasion, shortly before this date, Worthington returned an insurance policy, insured for Mrs. Worthington, to the insurance company, remarking that the company was "too particular how a woman dies," according to the witness.Worthington has been twice married since his first wife's death.
He divorced his second wife and now is said to be in New Orleans with his third. He has property to the extent of $100,000, according to Miss Grace Worthington, who has been guardian of the minor children since 1920.

IS FATALLY BURNED
Inquest Will Be Held Today Into Death of Edward Engel.
An inquest will be held today in the case of Edward Engel, 2 years ago who was fatally burned yesterday while playing with matches in the kitchen of his home, 4344 Oregon avenue.
Mrs. William Engel, his mother, was in the basement when she heard his screams and rushed upstairs to find his clothing in flames.

MEXICAN DISTILLERY PROMOTER BANKRUPT

O. D. Berroth, in Hearing Here, Says Local Revolution Caused Failure of Plan.

Financial transactions varying from the sale of a dairy farm in Virginia to the attempted promotion of a distillery in Old Mexico were outlined before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles yesterday by O. D. Berroth, a promoter, who is seeking relief from liabilities amounting to $40,000, against which he says he has only doubtful assets.

Berroth told how, after the sale of the Virginia farm in 1920 for $40,000, he dabbled in real estate and farm lands throughout Missouri until two years later, when he says he "became interested" in the establishment of a distillery in Old Mexico, 800 miles south of Nogales, Ariz. Berroth said he and an associate invested some $20,000 in the distillery, and he had just obtained an additional $25,000 from friends in Los Angeles, Cal., to invest in the project, when a local revolution resulted in the plant being seized by Mexican rebels, and later confiscated by the Mexican Government in default of taxes.

Berroth did not detail where he hoped to market the product of the distillery, but said the proposition "would have been a good one," if the revolutionists had not spoiled his plans. After the Mexican failure Berroth said he had "poor luck," being finally forced to file a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

The Night and Day Bank and the Indiana Refining Co., the former closed by the State Finance Commissioner, and the latter a bankrupt concern, were both mentioned by Berroth in his testimony. He said he once owed the bank $3500, which he repaid when he sold the Virginia farm, and that a friend pledged the Indiana stock to raise money to invest in the distillery.

The bankruptcy petition lists Berroth's assets as some California oil leases of doubtful value and a third interest in a $25,000 suit here against J. C. Jannopoulos, for alleged nonpayment of commissions in the sale of the old Delmar Garde as a residential tract. Berroth testified that he and another real estate dealer arranged the deal through the Broadway Savings Trust Co., for which, he alleges, Jannopoulos promised them 25 per cent on the net profits from the final sale of the property for building purposes. Berroth's bankruptcy application was taken under consideration by Referee Coles.

There are also Tricks to the Housewife's Trade and here is one worth knowing

THOUSANDS of housewives now know how to select the very juiciest and most delicious oranges and grapefruit—and the most economical, too. Here is how it's done!

Completely disregard both color and shape. Be sure they are heavy for their size. For weight means juice!

Moreover, "rusty" or unsightly oranges and grapefruit are very often much sweeter and juicier than those which merely please your eye. In fact, all these shades and shapes frequently come from the same orange or grapefruit tree.

Such knowledge as this has led to increasing thousands of housewives to demand Sealdsweet Oranges and Grapefruit every time. They have learned that, compared size for size with ordinary oranges and grapefruit, they cost less, because

GENERALS BULLARD AND MORTON RETIRE SAME DAY

Both Commanders Led Forces in France; Praised by Secretary Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—By the coincidence of their birth on the same day 64 years ago, two Major-Generals, both with long military careers crowned by conspicuous service with the American Army in the World War, passed from active service today under the age retirement law.

War Department records show that Major-General Robert L. Bullard, commanding the second corps area at Governor's Island, and Major-General Charles G. Morton, commanding the fifth corps area at San Francisco, were born Jan. 15, 1861. The passage of 48 years since Gen. Morton entered the Military Academy from Massachusetts in July, 1879, gives him a service record just two years longer than that of his comrade from Alabama, who put on the cadet uniform in July, 1881.

Letters appraising the years of conspicuous service by both officers were handed them by Secretary Weeks on turning over their commands to appointed successors. In his letter to Gen. Bullard, the War Secretary recalled that it was he who led the first American division to enter the front line of battle in France, the first to fire on German forces, the first to take a German prisoner, and the first to pierce the hostile positions in the battle of Cantigny—the first American offensive of the war.

PART TWO.

KINNEY LEADING FIGHT ON FEDERAL CHILD LABOR LAW

Opposition to Ratification of Amendment by Missouri Crystallizes Under St. Louisan's Direction.

HE HAS SPONSORED MANY WELFARE ACTS

Against Placing Control in Hands of Washington Bureau, However—Proposes Municipal Boards.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 15.—Opposition to ratification by the Missouri Legislature of the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution giving Congress the power to regulate labor of all persons under 18 years of age, is crystallizing rapidly under the leadership of Senator Kinney of St. Louis.

Kinney, who in the last four or five sessions of the Legislature has devoted a large portion of his time to obtaining the passage of bills for the protection of children and of women, has expressed decided opposition to the Federal amendment, which will be transmitted to the Legislature in a few days by Gov. Baker. While seeking to prevent the ratification of the amendment, Kinney has in course of preparation a bill designed to regulate the labor of children by means of municipal boards. His proposal to substitute regulation by each community for the far-off bureaucratic Federal regulation proposed in the amendment should protect children.

"As everyone acquainted with child labor legislation in Missouri knows," Kinney said, "I am now and always have been a supporter of the Federal amendment, but the attitude looking to the betterment of conditions surrounding children and women, driven by necessity to labor for wages. All normal minds agree that children should be shielded from harmful results of enforced labor whenever possible. I think most persons will agree a way must be found to afford children protection.

"All summary legislation of the old type is plainly contrary to the principle of equity. Apart from this objection, statutes of this kind are notoriously futile, and attempts to enforce them involve inquisitorial methods and a control of private conduct intolerable to a free people.

"Enthusiastically supporting the amendment, as the best and only solution, are thousands of the women and men in America, but despite opposition of one class and support of the other, we should see the true and best solution and act accordingly.

"We all know that adoption of the amendment will mean a centralization at Washington, in the hands of a set of appointed bureau officials, far removed from the people, of the power to control, in each community, without regard to the sentiment of the local population, the question of the labor of children.

"Missouri Knows Best." The people of Missouri have the direct power to control the child labor problem in our State. It is a highly important power to the people. Who is as interested in and knows better the condition surrounding child labor and the attitude of the people of the State on this question, than Missouri voters? Cannot our people be trusted to protect their own children in this matter? We trust the lives and property of our adult citizens to the laws and protection of our State government. We do so because we believe such a course safe. Then why turn over the care, protection, health and happiness of these helpless children to a distant set of bureau officials at Washington, over whose actions the people have no direct control? I think the people will place the direct and immediate control of child labor and the employment thereof in the hands of each local community, the better it would be for the children.

"Looking at our Government, with its history, we see today it stands at the cross-roads, one road leading to absolute Washington bureaucratic government, the other leading back to local self-government, with the power of the people supreme. I believe local self-government is the cornerstone of American liberty. Destroy it and our republic will pass from existence.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT- FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

At the Root of the Matter.

There is at present a great cry for heavier punishment and longer sentences proportionately upon all prisoners. Why is there so much crime? It is the aftermath of the World War. It has been the result or effect of every great war.

What is to be done? Does heavier punishment stop crime? Not judging from the nightly holdups crime is still on the increase.

Since the supreme penalty, capital punishment, has been restored, more policemen have been killed in one year than in the preceding 20 years. Physical courage, the most common of all virtues, exists primarily in the breast of the evildoer. The crueler the punishment the more he will dare and the more desperate when at bay—so policemen are shot—and the present plan defeats itself.

Cooler heads must find another solution. Why not strike at the root of the matter. A slow, but sure way—begin with the infant mind. These villains and cutthroats have all, every one of them, been infants in the public schools.

Why did they not learn how to live there? Some will answer, "Oh, they get lots of money there." Indeed, they do not! Not a word! Lots of time to learn the three Rs, but never an hour to be taught real goodness reading the Bible, which they do not understand, but have a story to ask about in the love and tenderness in every young impressionable breast. I am a teacher and I know, except for that I chose to impart, not a moment was allowed to inculcate kindness, for by kindness one means honesty and charity, but the greatest of these is kindness, for one cannot be really honest or honorable unless they are kind.

Sprinkling Tax.

Where is the law to compel a property owner to pay a sprinkling tax when the city owns the streets and collects all the revenue for use of them? The farmer is the only one that can use them free, having more privilege than the property owner, who has no more privilege on the street in front of his property than he has on the street in front of the city hall for he cannot use either without paying the city a tax. The city pays for clearing the streets. And the property owner is not any more responsible for the dirt than for the dust. Each service is performed for the benefit of the street. If one is paid for by the city, both should be. The city is supposed to keep the streets in good condition and the expense should be paid from the general taxes.

The Lambert-for-Mayor Suggestion.

PROPOSAL the nomination of Maj. Albert Bond Nick, by correspondence, W. M. L. I want to record the nomination. With a man of Mr. Lambert's type, the Democrats would have an excellent chance to win the mayoralty. I hope the party leaders and business interests may draft him for the next election.

Blank Check to Congress.

ONE would surely be chagrined were not the cause so absurd; that was afforded by the speaker for the child labor amendment at a recent meeting. We were told that there were only two classes opposed: The manufacturers, who wished to exploit child labor, and the other class were those who were uninformed. Inviting remarks from his audience, the speaker was given the following objections, not included in his classifications. Disapproval of uniform laws for different states and conditions—the right of home inspection that would be necessary. Federal medical attention—the age limit of 18. And most forcibly the blank check idea conveyed by the so-called "enabling act."

The speaker said it was preposterous that we would not trust our Congress, and was asked why not trust our State Representatives. The speaker said, "Federal control now. Reading indorsements the speaker added that no one of prominence was opposed to the amendment. One of the largest group indorsements was challenged then, on the ground that it was given on the old amendments drafting two years ago. People of Missouri, watch this session of the Legislature and preserve for our glorious State her cornerstones of state rights.

LILY MARIE KINEALE.

THE HOUSE SHOULD ACT.

The Hawes resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to investigate the conduct of Judge English of the Eastern Judicial District of Illinois brings squarely before the House the question of cleaning up the intolerable situation existing in Judge English's court.

The situation is not new, nor is the question of investigation new. The inquiry called for by the Hawes resolution has been hanging fire for two years, ever since the summary disbarment of Attorney Karch by Judge English, to which the Post-Dispatch directed attention at that time. Investigation with a view to impeachment was then considered by members of the House, but the movement was halted by Attorney-General Daugherty.

Since then, conditions have become worse and complaints have multiplied. The charges against Referee Thomas, with which Judge English is connected, have driven him from office. He has resigned, under the plea of ill health, but his resignation does not in any degree relieve the House of the duty and responsibility of investigating the alleged misconduct of Judge English in connection with the referee in bankruptcy, and on other grounds.

The Post-Dispatch is not the prosecutor in this case. It is merely the medium of publicity by which the conditions existing in Judge English's court and the charges of misconduct are brought to public attention and to the attention of the House of Representatives. The duty of prosecution rests with the House of Representatives. The responsibility for the continuance of conditions which have brought Judge English's court into disrepute and which threaten to taint with contempt the Federal court in that district and thus impair the confidence of the public in the Federal judiciary rests with Congress. The responsibility for redeeming the court of the Eastern Illinois district and restoring confidence in the Federal courts by vindicating Judge English or meting out the punishment due for misconduct belongs to the House.

The Hawes resolution presents this duty and responsibility clearly and vigorously. It calls attention to the scathing rebuke of Referee Thomas, and indirectly of Judge English, by Judge Anderson, former District Judge and now Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. It lists the charges that have been made. It directs attention of the House to the fact that it is the only agency of Government which has the authority to investigate and either acquit, condemn or impeach. It calls attention to the effect of these charges and their publication, that "have created an intolerable condition which must be corrected by restoring public confidence in our courts through an ascertainment of the facts."

The Post-Dispatch can present only the charges and the manifest evidences of misconduct. The adoption of the Hawes resolution would empower the Judiciary Committee to make a thorough investigation. It authorizes the committee to call upon the Department of Justice for assistance and co-operation; to send for persons and papers and administer oaths. It can ascertain all the facts.

In view of the conditions existing in Judge English's court and the wide publicity given to these conditions and charges, the only way out is a thorough investigation and a fair and impartial trial. The adoption of the resolution will assure that conclusion.

THE INCREDULOUS JUDGE.

Judge Faris is no job, a bit of information which he himself disclosed at the opening of the Colbeck trial, when the difficulty of selecting a jury pleasing to everybody sandpapered his nerves. So when one prospective jurymen, following the rejection of many others, announced that he had formed an opinion, the Judge's patience gave way and this colloquy ensued:

Where did you get the basis for this opinion?
From the newspapers.
Do you believe everything you see in the papers?
Yes.
Discharged.

We should be tempted mightily to lay to our hearts the jurymen's flattering expressions were they not offset by the Judge's decision and the cynical quality of "Do you believe everything you see in the papers?" Apparently, the Judge has his own ideas of him who believes all that the newspapers print, and one of them is that he is not the type of man to sit on a jury. Then the Judge's question implied that, of course, it was unthinkable that anyone could possibly believe all that he saw in the papers.

To show our entire lack of sensitiveness, we should like to say that the Judge is a learned and able jurist, well equipped to preside at the Colbeck trial; that he is a gentleman and a citizen of the first rank. But what's the use? He wouldn't believe it.

"More money and worse roads" should be the slogan of the politicians who propose to smash the present State highway administration.

WORDS, WORDS, WORDS.

Now that the public printer has burrowed himself out of the avalanche of words poured forth by the last session of this Congress, he arises to add his mite to the general program of economy. It seems that all previous volumes of annual oratory have been exceeded by 19,478 pages. "If these pages," to quote the public printer, "were converted into ordinary newspaper form they would furnish copy for the publication of a 10-page newspaper of solid reading matter for 300 days."

But the printing of the Journal and Record for both houses, for all their windy length, is only a small fraction of the public printing bill. Printing of committee hearings alone costs $254,000. In all, 17,547 legislative bills were put into type, and one of this vast collection alone consumed 400 pages. Of course, to expect any diminution of this expense is as futile as expecting Congress to lower the salary of its members. Congressmen will speak for the Record, and they will introduce bills, and both bills and speeches will be printed until the crack of doom.

It is not at these that the public printer levels his criticism, but at the "free distribution of the molder array of publications, other than the Congressional Record and Directory, that are now allotted to all members alike, without regard to the interests of their respective states or districts." The public printer estimates that 25,000,000 copies of publications have been wasted in this manner during the past decade, at a cost of at least $600,000 a year. What a bewildering maze of words all this represents! What a lot of unread guff and piffle and bombast which must be paid for out of the taxpayers' pockets! Before the public printer is again submerged, he should be given a martyr's crown, with instructions to repeat his remarks without leave to print, until something happens to stem this tide of official "literature."

COOLIDGE REVERSES POLICY.

Silently, almost secretly, Mr. Coolidge has revolutionized the European policy of the Republican administration. The White House, to be sure, continues to say that there has been no change. But all Europe knows that the administration has reversed itself, and anybody who will look at the result of the Paris conference must see that Europe is right. We have transformed ourselves from an unofficial partner of the reparations problem into a partner under the Dawes plan.

Gone is the pretense that we were disinterested observers of the reparations business. Gone is the pretense that we could enforce a separate treaty with Germany. Gone is the pretense that we were against "involvements." Gone is the pretense that we would take part only privately and unofficially in the European question. Gone is the pretense that we were different and aloof, and all that sort of talk. Gone is the pretense that we were going to collect the last cent owing to us. For the sake of an annual, twenty-five millions of hypothetical cash we have in one vast diplomatic triumph canceled, roughly, 50 per cent of our claims against Germany and written ourselves into the partnership for collecting German reparations.

We have done the right thing, but we have done it expensively, furtively and without dignity. When the moral leadership of the world was ours we would not take part officially, as became a great Power, in the liquidation of the war and the organization of peace. But for twenty-five millions cash and in the guise of a grasping creditor, with all Europe divided between soreness over our rigidity about money and laughter over the naïveté of our diplomats, we have sidled into the center of the whole tangle. We have done at last covertly and with loss of prestige what we should have done at first, openly and with the gratitude of the world. We appear not as a generous creditor but as a creditor whose hard-heartedness has been beaten down. We appear not as a great nation shouldering its responsibilities for a peace in which its armies played the decisive part, but as a nation so bent upon petty bill collecting that it forgets to examine the moral responsibilities it is indirectly assuming.

OUR VACANT PAVILION AT PARIS.

It seems very odd that the United States will not be represented at the International Exhibition of Decorative Arts next April. Thirty other nations have seized this chance to display the genius of their designers, but the United States, though invited, has declined to participate.

Is it apathy which leaves us unrepresented at this important exhibition, or has the greatest industrial nation nothing to contribute to a showing of decorative and industrial arts and crafts? If the latter is true, it is time for us to begin. But surely we have made strides in the field of the useful arts, especially since 1919, when St. Louis gave an impetus to the movement by holding a national exhibition.

What of the product of the schools of design which have sprung up throughout the country? What of the permanent exhibitions of industrial art which are maintained in many of the chief cities of the United States? Here is a ready reservoir of material for an American pavilion at Paris.

Granted that the older nations excel us in some branches of decorative art, we have superiorities of our own, as illustrated, for example, by automobile design. And no doubt there are many young American designers who compare favorably with Europeans in transmitting shapeless metals into beautiful and useful articles.

Good business, if nothing else, should prompt America to be represented at Paris. We must compete with the world in the sale of articles animated by the skill of the designer. And now when of nearly every appendage of civilization is demanded a beauty and grace of form, a failure to develop and exploit industrial art is serious. It reflects upon our energy and intelligence.

Just as we are about to rejoice over the increase of 7.2 per cent in terms of dollars in the nation's wealth of the past decade we recall that the value of the dollar has fallen just about enough to cancel the account.

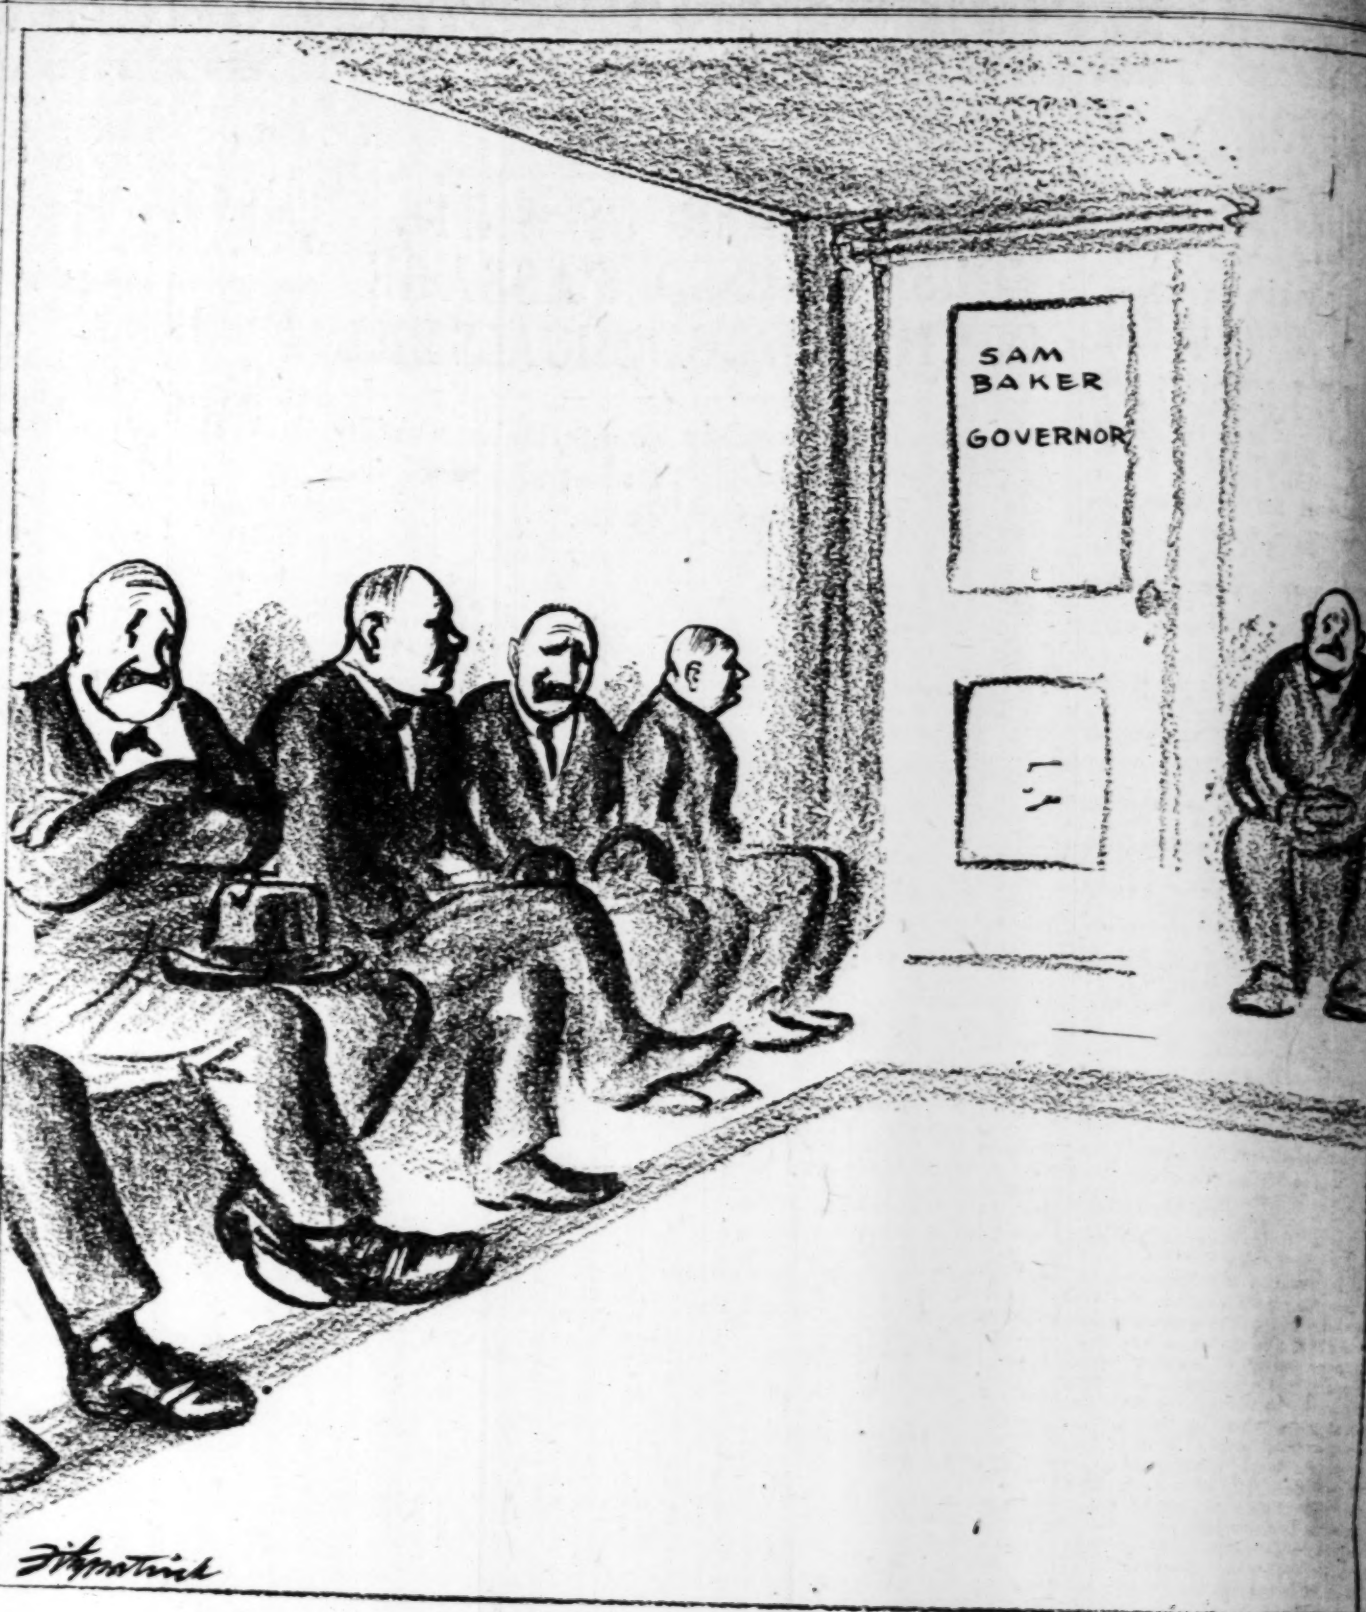

NEPOTISM AND UNDERPAY.

Republican members of the Missouri House already have indicated an intention to heed Gov. Baker's exhortations on economy in the matter of clerk hire. It was decided in caucus to abandon the old system of a clerk for each member, which enabled a member, if he chose, to appoint his wife or other relative, send the relative home, do his own clerking and draw the clerk's pay. Now it has been decided to place the entire clerical force under the supervision of a clerical committee for the purpose of hiring only such clerks as needed.

That the Baker admonition has borne fruit is evidenced in the fact that it had been the previous declared intention of the Republican majority to disregard the new antinepotism amendment to the Constitution and make dummy clerks out of family members merely for the sake of supplementing their own meager pay. It was held that the new amendment would not be operative unless legislation were enacted to enforce it, and this could very easily be "overlooked."

Such a course would have been a grim joke upon the electorate of the State which rejected the proposition to increase legislators' pay at the same time that it proscribed nepotism. As a matter of fairness it should have voted the pay increase, after which its ban on nepotism might have been willingly accepted. It is manifestly wrong that law makers expected to maintain their independence should be asked to give their time to the State and live away from home on the miserly pittance of $5 a day.

Representative Tillman of Arkansas does not want the charges of congressional intemperance to be dignified with an investigation. That, indeed, appears the most dignified way of throwing the inquisitors off the trail.

Poetry is—you.

OUTIS.

We are quite sure that Dr. Elliot never heard of our school of two-story thinking. He would otherwise not care merely to echo it as he has been doing of late without credit to Socrates. Mr. Answine or any of the topwits making up that celestial circle. Some time ago these gentlemen agreed that there is nothing more precious in our country than for so long a rich human mosaic. They thought it was a loss to lose the German restaurants in St. Louis; that for Fausts, Melchiorers, etc., there is no eating the same thing, which is the present tendency, is to render inevitable that oneness and dullness which have resulted in China from eating rice. Dr. Elliot comes along now and makes this same point. He thinks the sort of melting pot at which we are working, that is a crucible in which we shall be made exactly alike, is a mistake. He does not agree that we should cook up all the Italians, Greeks, Germans, French, British, Poles, Irish, etc., into one common stew. If that is what we have in mind as Americanism, he says it will make the most uninteresting and tasteless people the world has known. We are glad to have the Doctor agree with us. We are glad to have the Doctor agree with us. We are glad to have the Doctor agree with us.

Frank Kellogg was regarded by the insurgents in Congress as the latest of the lame ducks. By making him first Ambassador to England and now Secretary of State, Mr. Coolidge may be said to have avenged himself upon the troublesome wing of his party about as far as one not altogether living for vengeance would care to go.

A Chicago banker warns his city that St. Louis is outstripping it industrially. We doubt it. Much of this smoke is made by homes.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to represent without bias the latest comment by its leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

UNOFFICIAL CENSORSHIP.

From the Washington Post.
THE Watch and Ward Society of Massachusetts has established a censorship of all magazines printed in the State or imported into it. Its secretary predicts that by the end of the year the society will have prevented the distribution of at least 10,000 copies on the ground of injury to public morals. As a result, the American News Company has already declined to distribute further certain magazines whose contributors specialize in "frank confessions." The purpose of this campaign is, undoubtedly laudable. If, by written and spoken word, the society can check the malicious and indecent literature, an unneeded organization, be it never so intelligently directed, can at most merely advise against reading immoral books and magazines. Does it not, at the same time, give them a wide advertisement and thus serve to intensify their appeal to depraved tastes? Moreover, it has proved very hard in the past to draw the line between impropriety and art. What is to be the acid test, morality or literature? If the former, then present-day conventions make the rules. If the latter, there can be no rules at all. It would seem, therefore, that such societies have set themselves a hard task. If they cleave to a rigid standard of "morality" they will soon generate into a smugness, deaf to everything save after the manner of Anthony Comstock.

HOW TREATIES ARE MADE.

From the Washington Post.
A REPORT to the British Government on the methods of dealing with international questions now in force in various countries is illuminating, and should be of special interest to those who seem to think that the United States lags behind the rest of the world in what we might call the democratization of foreign relations. From this authentic report it appears that in France the Government—the Prime Minister and his colleagues—have complete liberty and the sole right to negotiate, and even in certain cases to conclude treaties and to withdraw their terms from the knowledge of Parliament. In Germany the President, through the Chancellor and ministers, concludes treaties and treaties with absolute power. In Austria the Reichstag, save that alterations of the boundaries of its territory in Japan all treaties are under the sole and absolute control of the Emperor. In the United States, while the President has the sole power to negotiate treaties, he cannot conclude them without the approval of two-thirds of the Senate. Such is the significant contrast between American and foreign commitments as representing the will of the nation.

R. J. KILPATRICK, CIVIL WAR VETERAN, DIES

Former Steamboat Engineer, 85, Active in Business Here for 60 Years.

Robert John Kilpatrick, steamboat engineer, veteran of the Confederate navy, and for almost 60 years active in St. Louis business, died suddenly at his home, 218 West Hurck street, Carondelet, yesterday of the infirmities of age. He was 85 years old.

Born in County Armagh, Ireland, he came to America when 7 years old, landing at New Orleans and coming up the river to St. Louis. Bred in the atmosphere of the North he was a Union sympathizer, but when the war broke out he was in charge of a big sawmill at Houston, Tex., and he couldn't get through the Confederate lines. He was captured, and when it was discovered that he was a steam engineer he was impressed into the Confederate navy, where he became a chief engineer. He was captured while serving on the gunboat Selma, with Admiral Buchanan in Mobile Bay, and was confined for a time as a prisoner of war in the Union warehouse at New Orleans.

Just before the end of the war he married Miss Susan Newman in Mobile. After the war he was for three years chief engineer on river steamboats running up to St. Louis from New Orleans. Three of the boats on which he served, the Minnie, Florence and Victoria, were famous as among the finest on the river.

In 1867 he became superintendent of the Western Foundry, of which Marshall & Kilpatrick, the latter his brother Joseph, were owners. In 1876 he moved to Carondelet and started the South Side Foundry, in which he was active until 1923. He was also interested in the old brickyard—now long vanished—at North Broadway and Grand avenue, and in the Centralia Mills. He helped organize the Carondelet Electric Light and Power Co. Kilpatrick maintained his interest in engineering and was a member of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, being vice president in 1913 and in 1915 president of that organization.

Five sons, Joseph N. Frederick M. William H. Edwin R. and Charles P. Kilpatrick survive him. Funeral services will be held at the family home, 218 West Hurck street, at 2 p. m. tomorrow, with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Members Cache Lodge, No. 514, A. F. and A. M., of which he was a member, will have charge.

ASK GENE—SHE KNOWS

EUGENE DENNIS

(THE KANSAS WONDER GIRL)

Chief of Police Dorney and Sheriff Diehl of Chillicothe, Mo., asked Gene the whereabouts of Johnny Cole, who had escaped from jail. She gave them a McRee avenue address in St. Louis and there Chief of Police Martin O'Brien found the boy.

In Oklahoma City Mrs. Andrew Sidney asked Gene if her husband was alive and where. Gene told her he was in Aldridge, Mo., and there she found him.

Mrs. Harriett E. Leonard of 5545 Brush st., Detroit, Mich., asked Gene to find her daughter for her. Gene told Mrs. Leonard to write the Jefferson Hotel. The daughter had just left the Jefferson, but the hotel management supplied the forwarding address.

ONLY PACKARD CAN BUILD A PACKARD

YOUR PACKARD IS WAITING

Packard Six and Packard Eight both furnished in ten body types, open and enclosed. Packard's extremely liberal time-payment plan makes possible the immediate enjoyment of a Packard—purchasing out of income instead of capital.

No car that Packard ever built has made friends so quickly and so numerously as the Packard Six.

Now, because of recently announced price reductions of the enclosed models, the Packard Six, in unchanged quality, is available to more men and women.

Thousands who have always wanted the quality and distinction belonging to Packard now can gratify that desire.

For example, the price of the Packard Six Five Passenger Coupe has been reduced $765—now $2685 at Detroit.

M'CORMICK SUES TO KEEP STOCK
FROM EX-WIFE

Charges She Is Trying to Get Shares That Belong to 9-Months-Old Granddaughter.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 12.—Harold McCormick, father of Matilda Oser, 9-months-old daughter of Matilda and Max Oser, Swiss riding master, has filed suit in Federal Court here in the name of Matilda and Max Oser, to restrain the Equitable Trust Co. of New York, trustees for the $20,000,000 trust fund created by John D. Rockefeller, from paying to Edith Rockefeller McCormick, mother of Matilda, and divorced wife of Harold McCormick, 123,824 shares of stock in the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

The stock has a market value of more than $5,000,000. The suit filed yesterday sets out that Edith McCormick released her right to the original trust fund of 12,000 shares Jan. 19, 1918, and that since her share is now 123,824 shares, this is the property of the child of her daughter, Matilda. This, the petition says, was stipulated by John D. Rockefeller Sr. when the trust fund was created.

The suit also asks that the trust committee be restrained from recommending a transfer of the stock from the trust fund to the name of Edith McCormick. The committee is composed of John D. Rockefeller Sr., Cyrus H. McCormick, E. Parman, James Prentice of New York, also a son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Willard Richardson of New York, and Bertram Cutler of New Jersey. The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana also would be restrained from making any transfer.

The 123,824 shares of stock, according to the petition, is worth $25 a share, and is only part of the entire trust fund of more than 240,000 shares created for heirs of John D. Rockefeller Sr. The $25-a-share valuation placed on the stock in the petition is the par value. It was pointed out by attorneys. The stock was quoted on the market yesterday at $24.24 a share.

It is set out in the petition that Edith Rockefeller McCormick is attempting to regain possession of the stock which, it is alleged, rightfully belongs to her granddaughter.

FRENCH DEBT
QUESTION BEFORE
BRITISH CABINET

against all the pressure of France and one principle which has distinguished the British policy toward Germany as being more honorable as well as more prudent than that of France.

"Now our detractors will say that Great Britain has again played the hypocrite, that our professions for regard for the law were sham; that we cared about nothing except the economic consequences to ourselves of the Ruhr occupation, and that we are our words with relish and our moral precepts without any blush or casual remark."

"Winston Churchill made no effort to preserve us from this indignity. It is not much consolation from this point of view, that the practical consequences of his surrender may be slight and that America's re-entry into world affairs will make a repetition of the Ruhr venture impossible."

Churchill's Diplomatic Skill.
This view represents only the opponents of Churchill. His friends declare that he has achieved a triumph of diplomatic skill in fitting the British demands to each case presented at Paris. It is doubtful if any of Great Britain's detractors will be able to raise the point of the principle involved in the Ruhr or say that Churchill did not make a justifiable compromise. When he explains to the House of Commons his work he will receive practically unanimous support.

France Celebrates "Return of United States to Europe."
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1922)

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Joy bells were ringing throughout France today, celebrating what all the newspapers call the "return of the United States to European affairs."

The colorful speech of Ambassador Kellogg stating that the American people are keenly interested in the success of the Dawes plan is interpreted as an undeniable sign that the Coolidge administration is no longer reluctant to take an active part in European affairs.

Premier Theunis of Belgium, commenting upon the eventual cooperation of the United States with European countries, said: "To pay 2 1/2 per cent to have America's signature in our syndicates is nothing. America might ask 2 1/2 per cent or 7 1/2 per cent to participate in this operation and we would gladly pay and this would have been a bargain price, too."

Cuba May Change Law.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Jan. 12.—Thirteen of the 34 members of the Senate yesterday appointed an official committee to discuss with the leaders in the House of Representatives a proposal to prohibit the re-election of a President of the republic; to make the term of President six years, instead of four; to hold direct elections for Senators and modify the immunity granted Congressmen.

"MAGIC RING" CASE SUSPENDED

Feared It Might Interfere With Contest for Congressman's Seat.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Charges naming Representative Nathan Pulman as the beneficiary of alleged "magic ring" ballot tampering apparently collapsed, for the present at least, yesterday. After a conference between Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora and Dr. William I. Strovich, the defeated candidate, it was indicated that the grand jury's investigation had been "temporarily suspended," on the ground that the opening of the questioned ballot box might interfere with a contest for Pulman's congressional seat.

The charges developed when George Rosken, a tally clerk, made an affidavit that he had marked ballots to the advantage of Pulman.

SENATORS TO LOOK INTO FEES PAID IN BANK FAILURES

Employment of Special Attorneys in St. Louis and Other Cases to Be Investigated.

STATE HIGHWAYS RECORD UP NEXT

Reports of Favoritism and Evasions of the Law in Pushing Road Program Subject of Inquiry.

By CURTIS A. BEITTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 15.—The Finance Department headed by former Congressman Millsbaugh will be the first State department to come under the inquiry of the Faris investigating committee of the Senate. Millsbaugh probably will be the first witness when the committee begins its hearings early next week.

In the beginning the inquiry will be directed toward an investigation of Millsbaugh's action in employing special attorneys in the Night and Day Bank and Chippewa Bank liquidation cases (both in St. Louis) and in the employment of special attorneys in Kansas City and elsewhere in the State.

Chairman Faris today said that in the early stages "the investigation would go into the necessity for the attorneys and also into the question of whether the fees paid them were exorbitant. Later, he said, it might extend to the detailed methods of the Finance Department in closing failing banks, to the handling of the banks' affairs after they were closed, and to the question of whether liquidation in any cases had been unduly prolonged.

Millsbaugh's Records.

Millsbaugh will be required to take before the committee a large volume of records in connection with the affairs of the defunct banks and will be questioned in detail as to his management of the department.

While primarily the investigation is to provide information for changes in the law to improve the bank inspection service, Faris said, the committee would look also into the question of whether the department had been functioning to a reasonable degree of efficiency under the laws that now exist.

After the Finance Department inquiry is completed, the committee will take up the State Highway Department, in which, according to information in Faris' possession, there have been no accusations of dishonesty in connection with the Highway Department, although the Harris resolution, under which the committee was appointed, cited reports of favoritism in the letting of contracts and cited many alleged charges of evasion of the law.

"You Can Hire a Lawyer."

There has been no accusation that the department has failed to proceed diligently in the construction of roads; to the contrary, the contention in some quarters has been that the very speed of construction has led the commission into ignoring limitations placed on it by law.

Senators, since the passage of the resolution, have recalled a statement made by Chairman Gary of the commission to a Senate committee two years ago. When Gary's attention was called to the fact that the law prohibited the commission from proceeding in a certain manner, his reply was: "I have found that when you want to do a thing you generally can hire a lawyer who can tell you how to do it." The charge is now being made that Gary has ridden roughshod over legal obstacles in his path.

The investigating committee will meet for organization purposes either today or tomorrow, and then will outline definitely the procedure to be followed.

Divorces Husband, Then Kills Him.

By the Associated Press.
FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 15.—Gladys Fessler, 22 years old, yesterday obtained a divorce from Bernard Fessler, 25, her husband of less than a year, and, in the afternoon, shot him to death when he went to her room in her parents' home. She told the District Attorney ney that he had written threatening letters and attempted to shoot her when he visited her quarters. She is in jail on a charge of murder.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO REVISE BANKING LAWS

McFadden Measure Is Designed to Put National Banks on Par With State.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The House today passed a bill designed to put national banks on par with state banks, particularly in respect to branch banking by national banks, now awaiting action in the Senate.

As passed by the House late yesterday the measure carries the Hull amendments designed to place restriction on its branch banking provisions. All of these amendments had been accepted by Chairman McFadden of the Banking Committee, author of the bill.

One of the amendments adopted yesterday, offered by Representative Wingo of Arkansas, ranking Democrat on the committee, struck out a section which made the following acts crimes punishable under Federal statutes:

"Conspiracy to boycott; blacklist or cause withdrawal of deposits from a bank holding membership in the Federal Reserve System; robbery or burglary of a member bank; making intentional false statements for the purpose of obtaining credit from a member bank; or fraudulently disposing or selling personal property upon which there is a mortgage to a member bank."

Wingo and supporters of his motion contended that all the crimes enumerated were punishable under State laws and that prosecution should be left to the State courts.

The bill, the banking policy of which has been endorsed by the National Association of Credit Men and the American Bankers' Association, is designed to put national banks on a better competitive basis with State institutions, particularly with regard to maintenance of branches. As reported to the House, the measure gave national banks the right to maintain intracity branches where State banks are permitted to do a branch banking business, but the amendments put forward by Representative M. D. Hill (Rep.) Illinois, placed restrictions on the maintenance of these branches.

Among other things, the Hull amendments provide that in States where the Federal Reserve System is in operation, national banks must obtain authority from Congress before establishing branches to meet State banking competition. In such instances, State banks would be denied the privilege of the Federal Reserve System until national banks were accorded the right to compete with branches on an equal footing.

DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST FRANK VANDERLIP SETTLED

Announcement Made by Marion (O.) Paper Whose Publishers Filed $1,200,000 Action.

By the Associated Press.

MARION, O., Jan. 13.—The $1,200,000 damage suit filed by Roy D. Moore and E. H. Brush, publishers of the Marion (O.) Star, against Frank A. Vanderlip of New York has been settled out of court, the Star was told today.

The suit was filed by the publishers following an address by Vanderlip at Briar Cliff, N. Y., a year ago in which the New York financier is alleged to have charged that Moore and Brush paid President Harding an exorbitant price for the paper. Vanderlip is reported to be seriously ill with typhoid fever. His wife, through H. E. Benedict, the former's business manager, authorized the publication of the statement that "on account of the grave illness of Mr. Vanderlip, he cannot be apprised of the settlement out of court of the suit," and that "there is no justification for the statement that the price paid, President Harding by the present owners was too high or that there was anything sinister about the financial arrangement."

LOWE, GLENCOE TRAIN ROBBER, IS PAROLED

St. Louisan Was Given 43 Years for Mail Holdup in County in 1910.

William W. Lowe, former operator of a stock and bond office at Fourth and Market streets, who was sentenced to 43 years in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, in 1910, for robbing a mail train at Glencoe, in St. Louis County, was released on parole yesterday, along with seven other inmates of the institution.

After being shadowed by postoffice inspectors for several weeks following the robbery, which occurred Jan. 21, 1910, Lowe was arrested in his office by former Chief of Detectives James Smith, Lieut.
John McCarthy and a squad of detectives. The inspectors had got upon his trail because the Glencoe robbery had the earmarks of previous train holdups in which Lowe had been involved.

About the same time James Eb-beling, an alleged accomplice, was arrested in Hot Springs, Ark., and confessed a part in the robbery, implicating Lowe. Lowe's brother, James Lowe, and another man were then arrested and gave information that a pair of revolvers used by Lowe could be found near the scene of the holdup. Detectives visited the designated place and found the weapons.

PAAVO NURMI WILL TRY TO BREAK TWO WORLD'S RECORDS TONIGHT

Finn Likely to Beat Ray's Time For 3000 Meters

Attempt Will Be Made Also to Better Chicagoan's Mark for 17 1/2 Miles.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM

After Race Runner Will Journey to Chicago for Meet and Then Back to New York.

By Charles E. Parker.

Of the New York World Sport Staff.
NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Paavo Nurmi, whose first competitive appearance in this country brought three new world records, will resume his attack on Father Time before a capacity throng at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Finland's wonder runner will engage Willie Pihlala, his fellow countryman and persistent rival; Verne Booth, former international distance champion; Fred Wachenuth, national indoor title-holder, and several other stars in a special 3000-meter run at the annual Municipal A. A. games. He will strive to set new records both at the 3000-meters and the one and seven-eighths mile marks. The existing records, both made by Jole Ray in 1923 are eight minutes 21.1 seconds for the 3000 meters and eight minutes 24.4 seconds for the one and seven-eighths miles.

That Paavo the Great can shave full seconds from those figures is the belief of all who watched his sensational work in the Finnish-American A. C. meet last week.

Severe Test for Finn.
The race tonight is noteworthy from a viewpoint other than thrilling competition and prospective new records. It is to start Nurmi on the most ambitious and most trying 51-hour program ever attempted by a foot racer, for immediately the Garden race is over Paavo will board a train for Chicago to meet Jole Ray and other Yankee headlines in a one and three-quarter mile run at the Illinois A. C. games in the Chicago Coliseum tomorrow night and he will finish that event only to jump aboard a returning special which will land him here for a 2000-meter race at the Fordham University games, in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory.

Three races in three nights on three different styles of running track against three specially selected fields, each of which contains at least one Yankee title holder, and with a railroad journey totalling 2000 miles sandwiched in between, constitutes Nurmi's self-imposed task. Although he never has spent a night in a Pullman berth, and long-distance railroad traveling is strange to him, he expects to register records at each stop.

Race Tonight Starts Early.
Nurmi's race tonight, which will start promptly at 8:30 to permit him to make his whirlwind connections to Chicago, will be the outstanding contest of the Municipal A. A. games, but not the only one in which thrilling competition and new records are possible.

Thirteen events in the junior national indoor championships, several schoolboy contests, six events open only to municipal employees and two for women athletes complete the program, and especially in the junior events the quality of the entrants is such that no title is sure or decision until the late in the evening when the field event measurements take place.

Goodwin Is Expected to Star.
Great things are expected of Bill Goodwin of the New York A. C. In the junior two-mile championship. The Winged Foot star ran the best race of his brief but brilliant career last week in the Finnish-American meet when he overcame a 70-yard lead held by Ray Dodge of the Illinois A. C. and continued on to finish many yards in front of that Olympic athlete. The distance was one mile and clocked 10 minutes 25 seconds. Since that race he has been building for the longer race of tonight and expects to carry the name speed of his brief career.

Goodwin must face an exceptional field in Andy Crawford, George Bell, Alvin Mack, George Bartosh, Dave Horton and other tried distance men, but he is generally favored to win the test.

Paul Herlihy and John Holden of Georgetown and Cecil Cook, formerly of Syracuse, are three who will be much in the battle for the Junior 600-yard championship. The 1000-yard title number will have Tom Clauser of the N. Y. A. C. and Kennedy of Yonkers, Jack Gray, formerly of Cornell, and several other quality runners among its starters.

LAYTON TAKES TWO 3-CUSHION MATCHES FROM KIECKHEFER

John Layton gave some indication of returning to championship form yesterday when he defeated Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago in two National Three-Cushion League matches.

Kieckhefer scored the local player in both matches, the scores being 50 to 46 in 64 frames and 50 to 44 in 58 frames. Layton's best run for the day was a seven, while Kieckhefer reached six. The afternoon match was played at the Rogers parlors downtown and the night game at the Lexington-McClary rooms at Grand and Olive.

BOSTON.—Earl Eshkabaugh of this city took two Three-Cushion League matches from Harry Walker of Cleveland here yesterday, by scores of 49 to 45 in 61 frames and 50 to 45 in 49 frames. Walker fielded a high run of seven and took a run of six.

New York Court Offers to Act In O'Connell Case

District Attorney Says He Will Prosecute if Landis Presents Evidence.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Prompt prosecution of Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan for their part in the 1924 bribery scandal was promised today by District Attorney J. H. Banton. If Baseball Commissioner Landis presents evidence of a crime committed here in violation of a New York statute covering such offenses.

District Attorney Banton made this statement when his attention was called to publication of a section of the New York State criminal code, which specifically classifies baseball bribery or attempted bribery as a felony, punishable by imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than five years and by a fine of not more than $10,000.

"If Commissioner Landis, who is one of the ablest lawyers in this country, has evidence of a violation of our penal laws by anyone in this country, I will take the evidence he submits and assign it to one of my assistants to investigate carefully," said Banton.

"If I am convinced a crime has been committed in this country I will prosecute such violation without delay," he said. "If the District Attorney concludes, indicating, however, that he probably would take no initiative himself in the matter.

The law covering such cases, enacted of which was generally unknown, was passed by the New York Legislature in 1921 shortly after the exposure of the White Sox scandal, which caused widespread popular demand for laws to cover specifically baseball offenses of the type.

WRESTLING BILL RETURNS TO LIFE

The bill providing for a wrestling commission, to regulate wrestling in St. Louis, was reported out favorably by the Board of Aldermen this afternoon. The measure may come up for a vote at a special meeting of the board Saturday or Monday. Alderman Theis, sponsor of the bill, is ill in a hospital.

TONIGHT

Pikers in Shape
To Open Season Against Sooners

Four Veterans Will Be in Starting Lineup, but Subs Will Get Chance.

By Arthur Schneff.

The basketball players of Washington University are in the pink of condition and are eagerly awaiting the whistle which will start them off in their opening Missouri Valley Conference game against the University of Oklahoma team at the Coleman tomorrow night.

Oklahoma lost her opening contest this season to the University of Nebraska outfit, but that fact has not demoralized the Pikers into regarding their foe lightly. The Sooners are usually a slow-starting team, but they finished in second place last year and are believed to be even stronger this season. They have a veteran outfit, with four of their 1924 regulars in uniform.

Four Letter Men in Lineup.—Coach White will have four of his 1924 regulars in uniform tomorrow, and the array of first-class utility players is far more formidable than it has been for many years. In fact, Coach White's substitutes are putting up such a strong fight for regular positions that even now, the day before the opening game, it is impossible to say with certainty which men will be in the opening lineup.

In spite of the close competition between the players on the squad, it is more than likely that Coach White will start his four veterans in the opening lineup in order to have an experienced outfit on the floor for the opening battle. In that case the starting team will consist of Capt. Cox, running guard; Paul West, back guard; Russell Brown, center; and Jack Miner, forward. With Ollie Nevis at the other forward post, Nevis is not a letter man, but he has played in several conference battles last year and has had experience under fire.

Subs to Get Chance.—There are, however, other players who are anxious to take part in the game, and some of them may even start in place of the regulars mentioned above. Charles Levy, the Piker football and baseball star, has been playing center at a break-neck pace and will be ready to take Nevis's place any time "Boss" Nevis is not a letter man, but he has played in several conference battles last year and has had experience under fire.

Points Out That Challenge Round in U. S. Singles Has Been Abolished.

POINT TO COME UP SOON

Question of Zone Challenge Rounds Another That Will Be Taken Up.

By William T. Tilden II,
U. S. Tennis Champion and Davis Cup Star.

At the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association several very important matters will come up for solution—questions which, in the heat of public interest in the solution of the player-writer controversy, have been lost sight of or minimized if remembered.

Naturally, it is essential to reach the solution of our amateur problems, for, in the case of the player-writer controversy, we were the only country in the tennis-playing world that had any worries or gave any serious thought to player-writer. So the happy solution to the problem is a welcome end to our isolated attitude.

Every year the Davis cup competition grows in magnitude and new problems arise to confront the governing bodies of lawn tennis all over the world. The increased cost of sending teams all over the globe at a great sacrifice of time and money by the players and often at financial loss to the nation, forces a serious study of the situation to find a logical and equitable solution. Two suggestions have emanated from England during the last three months, either or both of which might lend a partial relief or even solve the problem.

Zone Challenge Rounds Suggested.

The first, and possibly the most likely of success, is the suggestion that challenge rounds be inaugurated in each zone, whereby the previous year's winner stands out to play the current champion of the zone for the right to meet the winner of the other zone challenge round in the interzone field. Thus in 1925, under the proposed rule, France would stand out in Europe and play the winner of

MIKE M'TIGUE WANTS
BOUT WITH BERLENBACH

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Mike M'Tigue, light heavyweight boxing champion, is seeking peace with the New York State Athletic Commission and will take out a license if he is assured that he will not draw a suspension.

M'Tigue expressed a desire to meet Paul Berlenbach of Astoria, I. O., before facing Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight title holder.

The elimination ties in that district, while Australia would be the defender in the American zone.

This year from each competition and make less traveling and less expense, but it cannot solve the situation.

It could work in Europe, but what about Australia? Would Australia be forced to come to the United States to defend the American zone? If so, what does she gain by the challenge round? Nothing!

Distance a Big Handicap.—On the other hand, distance makes it impossible for the winner of the American zone to journey to Australia to play the challenge round and for the winner to return in time to play the interzone final match.

Frankly, while I believe that something should be done to equalize the Davis cup competition, so that the defending nation does not have the tremendous advantage which the United States now holds, still I hardly think the challenge round in each zone will prove an ultimate solution.

The second plan, and one which I advocated three years ago, is to abolish the challenge round altogether and force the champion nation to play through in whichever zone it may select to compete.

U. S. Stand Is Inconsistent.—I have always held that the United States is inconsistent in abolishing our national singles challenge round and aiding England in doing away with the Wimbledon challenge round, yet steadfastly adhering to the right to stand out in the Davis cup.

I feel that there is no excuse for the defending nation, supposedly with the strongest players in the world adding to their natural strength the advantage of home conditions, climate, courts and food, to which they are accustomed.

I am heartily in accord with the suggestion to abolish the challenge round and trust that the coming annual meeting will give careful thought to some action along this line.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Some Sport.
SIX HUNDRED lives were sacrificed on the altar of one sport event at Reading, Pa., yesterday.

That was because 12 trapshooters, to decide which one was the most adept slaughterer of pigeons, each shot at 50 live birds in the special event of a shooting meet in that city.

Such birds as escaped the marksmen were brought down by the pot hunters outside the fences, probably. The winner killed 48 of his 50 birds.

Six hundred lives is a heavy price to toss as a sop to some powder-burner's vanity.

Not that we blame Reading. The pot would be calling the kettle black. In Kansas City, Mo., they still hold frequent "flyer" shooting events. And even in the environs of St. Louis live-bird shoots in private are not uncommon.

Trapshooting is a sure-thing game for the shooter. And we are supposed to give all creatures a sporting chance!

As a relic of barbarism this live bird event ranks with the nose ring and Maori tattooing.

Congress and Baseball.
CONTROL of baseball by congressional commission, as advocated in a petition published elsewhere on the sport pages, is not such a wild-eyed thought as at first might appear. The time may not be ripe for it, as yet. One objection that might be urged is that they might inject politics into the pastime.

However, we permit politics to shape all the rest of our national activities—why not baseball? The time is not so very far distant, in this writer's opinion, when a department of public recreation, with its representative cabinet officer, will be established.

Already municipalities have such departments, and their extension to national scope is a mere matter of time. The sooner it comes the better.

Light in Dark Places.
TIGER FLOWERS is a dusky party, but he is illuminating the dim pugilistic byways of New York. In fact, the Boxing Commission threatens to set him as a lamp unto the feet of wayward metropolitan pugilists. In this

Flowers, it seems, has made a hit with one ring specialty: HE NEVER CLINCHES!

New York fighters, and in fact most American fighters, with the exception of Jack Dempsey, seldom do anything else. Many of our best title fights would make a holding company appear to have lost its grip. In fact, Harry Greb might be said to have CLINCHED the title when he beat Wilson.

But the Boxing Commission, having seen a REAL fighting style, likes it and wants to have all pugilists pattern after Flowers. The commission threatens to pass a rule prohibiting clinching.

With regret, we believe the commission will not be able to put it across. You can't teach old dogs new tricks.

The Case of Jimmy Wilde.
ONCE before America was treated to a sample of what a boxer could do without getting a throttle hold on the enemy every time a punch impended.

That was when the Mighty Atom, little Jimmy Wilde, came to this country on a tour.

I saw Wilde in three fights on that trip and the only time he was in a clinch was when the other fellow did the clinching. He did not lay a glove on his foe, except to punch him.

And Jimmy was hard pressed at times. In the first fight he gave away weight to Jack Sharkey who was often good. Every time Sharkey crowded or cornered Wilde the fans were treated to a sample of real boxing defense.

With swaying body and rolling head and blooming with gloves, elbows and forearms, he shed Sharkey's blows and then fought himself clear. No grabbing of mitts or holding was resorted to.

The same was true of his fights with Babe Assler, the A. E. P. champion, and Frankie Mason, then United States flyweight titleholder.

Big Munn Will

$2500-a-Week Vaudeville Contact Signed Yesterday Prohibits It.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Wayne J. Munn, world's champion heavy-weight wrestler, who has announced that he signed a $2500-a-week vaudeville contract, starts Feb. 1 to add the role of actor to his repertoire of professions, which includes those of teacher, preacher and clown.

The engagement will extend up to April, precluding any title match, it was said.

Four days before Munn took "Strangler" Lewis' title, he preached a sermon in the First Christian Church in Kansas City. His friend, the pastor, asked him to do it, he says.

Before that his career was checkered and colorful enough to give him claim to a title of all-round performer. He has been a football star, an army lieutenant, a wheat hand, circus clown, school teacher and prize-fighter.

He took dramatics at the University of Nebraska and was in several college shows. One summer, instead of hiring out as a wheat hand he joined a circus as a clown. He was a tackle on the Cornhusker eleven in '16 and '17, in the latter year playing in the game that resulted in a 7-0-0 defeat for Notre Dame.

He studied medicine for three years and went to war. On his return he was principal of a school in Pendleton, Neb., and of another school in Harbin, Neb. He has been a Y. M. C. A. instructor and done Boy Scout work.

De Paul to Use 3-Man Offense Against Billikens

Contest Tomorrow Will Be First on Chicago Team's New Floor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—When De Paul takes the floor against the St. Louis University quintet, in the De Paul gymnasium tomorrow night, a style of offense new to the Middle West will be shown. It is the three-man offense, and somewhat similar to the type of play used for a short time about five years ago. Coach Harry Adams and Assistant Coach Bert Klachten report that it seems to be working out fine and is a sure basket winner.

The North side Catholics have only played one game so far this season, against the Northern Illinois State Teachers' School of De Kalb, which they won 12 to 9. They were seriously hampered by the size of the floor, which was unusually small.

Fischer Is Star of Team.
Coach Adams has suffered three serious losses through injury since he started practice this year. Jimmy Lacy, the veteran guard, suffered a sprained ankle the first week of work and it is improbable he will play this week, though the ankle is almost healed. Devine, regular at center, has been forced to sit idly on the bench, due to a knee infection. Culver, the substitute center, twisted his knee yesterday. He is unable to walk, let alone play, and Fischer, star forward and captain of the squad last year, will have to do all the jumping. Fischer has been star of the team for the last two years. Two years ago, in a game against Valparaiso, he made 16 free throws out of 16 tries.

The lineup Friday night will probably be: Callahan and Peccararo, forwards; Fischer, center; Hoban and McInerney, guards; Rowe will play at the guard position part of the time. The De Paul team plays Valparaiso at the Indiana city tomorrow night.

On the occasion of the St. Louis game Friday De Paul will play for the first time on its new floor, which measures 125 by 113 feet, making it one of the largest in the city. A ceremony will mark the inaugural.

Johnson Denies Approving Plan For U. S. Control of Baseball

Petition Originating in Cleveland Wants Players Licensed and Advocates Paying Them Union Salaries.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—President Ben Johnson, of the American League, today disclaimed responsibility for published assertions that he favored governmental control of baseball, and said that he had not endorsed such a movement.

The Government should be of aid to us in suppression of gambling and curbing of gamblers operating nationwide. President Johnson said, "but any such details for rules and regulations by Government commission did not originate with me in any way."

"Such Federal control of baseball as proposed might have its merits, but at this time I reserve my opinion and positively am not endorsing or fathering any definite plans along that line."

The newspaper article sent out of New York, which connects me with such a suggestion, is based on a very brief reply I made to a letter from Mr. Collier of Cleveland, which came in my mail one day and suggested to me that the national game should be under Government control.

"There has often been discussion of what Government action should be taken to curb the evils of gambling and peels as they affect baseball, and my brief answer to Mr. Collier's letter was in the abstract sense."

A movement was fostered some years ago for State legislation to elaborate their laws against gambling so that gambling on baseball could be curbed and gamblers prosecuted in the courts. That has been the case in many States, and the Federal laws are not sufficient to naturally baseball should be eager to see them made sufficient, as was done by some State Legislatures.

Following is the story which provoked Johnson's utterance:

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Somebody has thrown a curve at American baseball. Into discussions of the game yesterday came a petition headed by a letter with the name of H. B. Johnson, president of the American League, which urges Congress to take charge of the American national game, license managers, players and umpires, and pay UNION salaries.

The paper circulated here is believed to have come from Cleveland as President Johnson's letter was addressed to Joseph A. Collier of that city. The plan set forth follows in part:

No man, or set or men, may own more than one club in each league.

Each club, umpire, manager, coach and player must secure a license from the Government each year, and such license may be suspended for the good of the game, or for any other reason.

No club may carry more than 25 uniformed men after the first of any season. No trades or sales of players between the clubs of a league may be made at any time without consent of the majority of clubs in such league.

All players in a league must be paid the same amount of salary, depending upon length of service in any league of that class, or better. Each club may offer prizes every year for the best batter, fielder and pitcher, provided all clubs in the league do the same and that all prizes are uniform. Each league will be free to make its own schedule of rates every year.

The petition calls for a commission of "three honest men, appointed by the president of the United States to administer the game. The commission would have headquarters 'away from the political atmosphere of Washington.'"

The letter purporting to bear Johnson's signature, follows: Your position relative to the regulation of our national game is correct. It is my firm conviction that we can only secure adequate and satisfactory results through the medium of a commission created by the Government.

YANKS OPPOSE PLAN, COL. RUPPERT SAYS
NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The New York Yankees are not in favor of any plan that would take the control of baseball away from its present administration and place it in the hands of government. Baseball is itself capable of taking care of itself and has proved it whenever necessary.

In these words, Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, condemned today the plan whereby the control of baseball would be placed in the hands of the Federal authorities, a plan that has received the endorsement of Ben Johnson.

When informed that one of the features of the project called for all ball players in a league to be paid the same salary, the Colonel said briefly:

Leacocks Defeat Mermonds, 28 to 15

Armature Team Surprises by Winning From Lowe-Campbells, in Municipal Basketball.

A three-cornered tie for first place in the Wednesday Night Open Division of the Municipal Basketball League was broken last night when the Leacocks defeated the Mermonds, 28 to 15, and the Lowe-Campbells lost to the Armature Redwings, 23 to 21.

The victory of the Leacocks was not wholly unexpected, but in view of the fact that the Armature team had not won a game previously, it was believed that the Lowe-Campbells would remain in a tie for first place. The accurate shooting of Clarke, a guard, had much to do with the Armature's victory. He counted two goals from the field and sent six points from the line in six attempts.

Gockel, with five field goals, and Rheinhardt, with two field goals and two free throws, led the Leacocks in scoring. The first half found the Leacocks leading 11 to 8, but in the second period the Mermonds' defense broke down.

CUBS CLAIM TALLEST PITCHING STAFF IN GAME

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The Chicago Cubs, with 16 pitchers on the roster, boast the tallest twirling staff in the major leagues.

Headed by Nick Dumovich and Eulach Morgan, each of whom measures 6 feet 2 inches, the Cubs have 10 moundmen all 6 feet or more.

Three of the six-footers are southpaws—Dumovich, Joe Watsedez, who stands 6 feet 1 1/2 inches, and Wilbur Cooper, who came from the Pirates.

George Stuehlend, who was with the club last season, and Joe West, who stands 6 feet 1 1/2 inches, are right-handed. Alexander, the Colonel, Kauffmann, Jacobs, Busch, Cooper and Herbert Brett are in the six-foot class.

That's a joke. Someone must have fed the authors raw meat.

Jayhawkers Lose To Kansas Aggies

First Defeat for Kansas on Home Court Since 1922—Score, 40-28.

By the Associated Press.
LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 15.—Playing a fast brand of basketball, the Kansas Aggies five defeated the University of Kansas team here last night in a Missouri Valley Conference championship game by a score of 40 to 28. The Kansas defeat was a complete upset, as the Jayhawkers were deemed to be an easy winner over the Purple and White crew.

The defeat of the Kansas team tonight was the first defeat they have suffered on the home court since 1922, when the Missouri Tigers won from them. This was the last valley game for the Kansas team this semester. They play the Kansas City Athletic Club team in Convention Hall in Kansas City Jan. 22.

THE SCORE:
KANSAS AGGIES (40):
Bunker, 10; Smith, 10; Campbell, 10; Hays, 10; Waddell, 10; Scholt, 0; Doman, 0; Keith, 0; Mett, 0.

KANSAS (28):
Anderson, 8; Campbell, 8; Hays, 8; Waddell, 8; Scholt, 8; Doman, 8; Keith, 8; Mett, 8.

SUZANNE LENGLEN IN FIRST MATCH SINCE WIMBLEDON TOURNEY

NICE, France, Jan. 15.—Suzanne Lenglen engaged in a tennis singles match at tournament play yesterday for the first time since she left the courts at Wimbledon last June. She disposed of Mile. Neveu, a handicap player, without the loss of a game, in two sets. She is unlikely to meet with dangerous competition in the present tournament, as no other prominent woman player either from England or France is entered.

Mile. Lenglen's father is manager of the Nice Tennis Club, which is conducting the tournament.

ILLINOIS U. PRESIDENT ON OLYMPIC COMMITTEE

By the Associated Press.
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 15.—President David Kinley of the University of Illinois has been named the third member of the International Olympic Committee, a letter confirming the appointment having been received by the new member from Baron Pierre de Coubertin, president of the committee. Dr. Kinley takes the place of Prof. W. M. Sloane of Princeton, who has resigned. The other two American members are Charles H. Sherill and William M. Garland of Los Angeles. The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for The Hague in May.

POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA PROBABLY ON JUNE 23

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The annual intercollegiate regatta probably will be rowed Monday, June 22, at Poughkeepsie over a three-mile course on the Hudson River, with one of the largest fields in the history of the classic taking part in the variety race.

This was indicated yesterday in connection with an announcement by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the board of stewards of the regatta, that the annual meeting of the regatta association will be held here Jan. 23 to discuss the regatta program.

4 Men in 7 Bald at 40

Yet 91% Needlessly, by Tests
Our experience shows falling hair most always due to infected Sebum. Now overcome.

Remove the infected Sebum and you remove the cause of most baldness

Written Guarantee to Grow Hair, or Money Back

This is a direct offer to grow hair on your head. An offer backed by our written guarantee, given by your own Drug or Department Store. If we fail, it costs you nothing.

We have recently made amazing discoveries. We have proven that while 4 men in 7 are either bald, or partly bald, at 40, only about 9 men in a hundred need ever be bald.

Hair roots seldom die from natural causes. They can be revived. We have proved this by regrowing hair on 91 heads in 100.

Highest authorities approve this new way. Great dermatologists now employ similar methods—many charge as much as $300 for similar basic treatment.

Baldness is a symptom of a disease. Note this fact and mark it. It is most frequently a symptom of infection of the Sebum—the scalp oil.

Infected Sebum
Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its purpose is to lubricate the hair. But it often becomes infected. It clogs on the scalp; clogs the follicles and plugs them. Germs by the millions then start to feed upon the hair. Semi-baldness comes first; then with neglect comes total baldness.

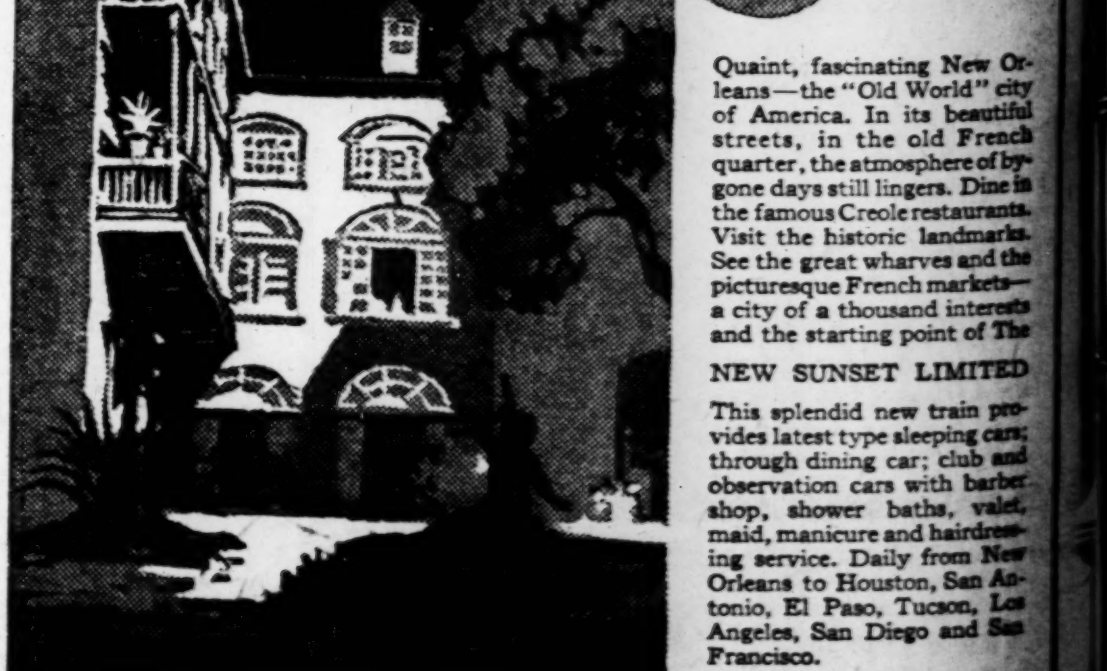

Remove that infection and your hair will generally grow. We back this statement with a money-back guarantee. Hence it is folly for any man with falling hair not to make the test.

Now We Remove It
Our treatment is based on a new principle. It penetrates to the follicles of the hair. It relieves infection—removes the infected Sebum. It stops falling hair. It revives the dormant hair roots, generally makes new hair grow. Remember, it is guaranteed.

Warrant Given by Your Dealer
Nored tape. The guarantee is positive. You are the judge. Your own Drug or Department Store gives it with each 3-bottle purchase. Go today, ask them for the Van Ess Treatment. The guarantee will accompany it. If the treatment fails—your money back.

Over 400,000 men have tested Van Ess under this same guarantee.

CONFESSED ROBBER
HELD IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Arthur W. Richardson Returned From Ohio to Face Bank Holdup Charges.

Arthur M. Richardson, confessed member of a band of East Side bank robbers who are implicated by confessions in a dozen Illinois bank holdups and a postoffice robbery, was returned to East St. Louis today where he is held pending a decision as to the handling of his case.

He has been in jail at Cleveland, O., since Friday, when he was captured in a rooming house at Akron. He has admitted participation in the $10,000 Freeburg, Ill., bank robbery, Aug. 27, and the $18,000 Shawnee, Ok., bank robbery, Dec. 14, and boasted that this was the first time he had ever been arrested. He is 30 years old, a quarter-breed Cherokee Indian, and until recently lived in East St. Louis.

According to the confession of James Ripley, alleged leader of the East Side gang, now serving a 25-year term for the Shawnee robbery, Richardson participated in several jobs including the kidnapping of the R. & O. agent at Salem in November when mail pouches were stolen. It is expected the authorities will seek a Federal indictment in the Salem case because heavier penalties are general in the Federal courts.

Taxi Driver Tells of Operations of East Side Gang.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 15.—"We got away with things in Illinois that we never could have pulled in St. Louis," declared George Musick, St. Louis taxicab driver and confessed member of the East Side gang, today. With William DeWitt of Venice, he is in jail awaiting trial for participation in the $12,000 Springfield bank holdup, Sept. 2, and has admitted a part in several other jobs.

"They've got a lot of us in jail now," said Musick, "but some of the boys will be out on parole pretty soon and they will carry on the work." Musick said he joined the gang as a taxicab driver. "We were never bothered. We traveled armed with pistols, and went from saloon to saloon, drinking heavily and spending money. I drove members of the gang to the Springfield Bank and took them joy riding around Venice, East St. Louis, Granite City and Madison."

CANS IN BOOTLEGGER'S YARD TRACED TO FLEISCHMANN CO.

U. S. Officials Tell Senators Agents of Yeast Concern Diverted 434,374 Gallons of Alcohol.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A pile of smashed alcohol cans found in the back yard of the K street home of a Washington bootlegger led to the disclosure of the diversion of 434,374 gallons of alcohol from industrial purposes through agents of the Fleischmann Yeast Co. in Philadelphia, New York, Jersey City and other cities within a few months during 1924.

This was disclosed by officials testifying before the Senate committee investigating the prohibition enforcement unit. The cans bore the number and address of the Philadelphia agency and prohibition officers immediately began an investigation, which led to indictments in Pennsylvania, subsequently quashed, and to inquiry into the activities of the other agents in connection with the handling of the alcohol.

Investigators for the committee said the alcohol had been issued on 118 forged permits, but the forgers never had been apprehended.

VERDICT AGAINST AUTO OWNER
THOUGH HE DIDN'T DRIVE CAR

Injured Typist Awarded $4000 on Contention His Sister-in-Law Was His Agent.

Miss Melba Rederer, 3764 Westminster place, obtained a jury verdict yesterday in Circuit Judge Killore's court for $4000 against Philip Lichtenstein, whose automobile she was injured June 27, 1923.

The car was driven by the defendant's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ann Lichtenstein. Mrs. Rederer said that she had been keeping company with Lichtenstein and had an engagement with him, but he could not keep it, so he sent his sister-in-law to take her for a ride.

At Lindell and Grand boulevards a collision occurred. Miss Rederer testified she was hurled through the windshield and suffered various lacerations. She contended that Mrs. Lichtenstein was acting as the agent of her brother-in-law, but the defense denied this and also denied that the accident was due to negligence.

Lichtenstein formerly lived here, but is now located at Tampa, Fla. Miss Rederer, who is 22 years old, is a stenographer.

Would Bar Women From Barbers.

By the Associated Press.
LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 15.—Long Beach hairdressers and cosmeticians' association announced yesterday that it was drafting an ordinance to exclude women from barber shops. The association hopes to win the City Council's approval of the proposed statute on the ground that it would free male customers of barber shops from the annoyance and embarrassment of waiting while bobbed-haired women monopolize the barbers' time.

NEUTRODYNE popularized broadcasting

NEUTRODYNE
only radio system originally designed to receive music and speeches

If YOU are among those who have been waiting for the ultimate in radio, a brief review of the facts should clear up many points in your mind as to what's what in receiving systems. Let's thumb through the pages of radio history and see what we find.

Radio, the modern miracle, went through the experimental stages faster than any other industry on record. A stabilized radio industry now finds four main systems of reception, the first three of which were originally designed for radio telegraphy and later adapted for modern broadcasting.

Then came Neutrodyne

The broadcasting of music and speeches as a public entertainment in the home was begun in 1920. Engineers immediately sought to adapt the three existing systems to the new conditions.

L. A. Hazeltine, Professor of Electrical Engineering at Stevens Institute of Technology, took the factors as represented by the new conditions and, by mathematics, worked out an entirely new system of broadcast reception.

The set built from Prof. Hazeltine's pencil figures worked perfectly the very first time! The principles established by this first Neutrodyne are the identical ones embodied in every Neutrodyne set which has since been built.

Corporation formed

In order to protect the public from fraudulent Neutrodynes, the Hazeltine Corporation was formed, and Professor Hazeltine entrusted his great idea to just fourteen hand-picked, licensed manufacturers. These fourteen radio builders are grouped into one association, known as the Independent Radio Manufacturers, Incorporated. They are listed below. No other manufacturers may use the genuine Neutrodyne principle!

Neutrodyne for satisfaction

The Neutrodyne system is as selective as a telephone switchboard. You set the dials at predetermined numbers and get the very station you want to hear, if the station is broadcasting at the moment. You get that station always at the same dial-setting.

Neutrodyne tonal quality is a thing apart. It reproduces with such realism that the illusion is created of being present at the original concert or lecture, miles away. Nor does the Neutrodyne set up squeaks and squawks. Mark this—if all sets were Neutrodyne, there would be no squealing.

If distance lends enchantment

If you cannot get a distant program with your Neutrodyne, take it for truth that nobody can get it with anything! Greatest of all is Neutrodyne's unflinching dependability. It always "comes through." You can invite friends without hesitation. You won't have to alibi or apologize. Be sure the set you buy is Neutrodyne. Do not confuse NEUTRODYNE with any other "dyne." Look for the Neutrodyne label. Uses either wet or dry batteries, and outside or indoor aerial.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

J. H. H.—Following is the recipe for cod fish balls: Cut the cod fish in pieces, soak them about an hour in lukewarm water, when the bones and skin may be easily removed; pull the fish into shreds, and put it on the stove in some cold water. As soon as it begins to boil, change the water, and repeat this process a second time. It is not proper to boil it, but to add it to the water and let it simmer. As soon as the fish is ready, some potatoes must be cooked at the same time, in a boiling tender, and well mashed while still hot, with a little butter added. Mix half of the fish with the potatoes while both are still hot. Potatoes into little balls or thick flat cakes. Fry them in a little hot butter, until they are browned on both sides, and then serve them in a boiling hot hard. It makes all the difference in the quality of the balls if the fish and potatoes are mixed while both are still hot, and then added to the hot oil, instead of being fried at once, but it should be the night before.

CONSTANT READER—Inquire of the various automobile dealers for the information desired.

P. D. READER—Try the following to remove the spots on the window pane: Take a clean glass and add as strong as strong vinegar and pass it over the glass and let it stand a minute or two, then throw on pulverized whiting, just enough to give a fine, bluish tinge. Rub both with the hand over the whole pane and polish with a dry rag. Rinse off with clean water and a little alcohol and polish dry and clean. Repeat the process on the other side and even with inferior panes a good appearance is obtained.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

QUESTIONNAIRE—There is no standard remedy for eczema. The cause should be sought for and corrected. Lassar's paste at night is a good remedy. It should be used on the face and neck and the arms and legs during the day may help. (2) Try iodine.

MR. J. J.—We do not give advice on dyspepsia. Keep the hair and scalp clean and well ventilated by shampooing. (2) Eczema on the face should be sought for and corrected. Lassar's paste at night is a good remedy. It should be used on the face and neck and the arms and legs during the day may help. (2) Try iodine.

Committee of ScientistsNEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A warning of the dangers that will attend the total eclipse of the sun Jan. 24 has been prepared by Prof. Ernest W. Brown of Yale, chairman of the committee of the American Astronomical Society, on public information and co-operation for the eclipse. It has been sent out by the Scientific American. The warning says:"A general warning to everyone in possession of valuable property. The darkness caused by a total eclipse comes very rapidly and for two minutes or so is as complete as on a moonlight night.
If the sky is covered with clouds or if there is a snowstorm at the time it will be still darker.""The danger from darkness in Connecticut and the eastern part of New York will be between 9 and 9:30 a. m. Bank messengers and those carrying payrolls should be warned.""Vehicular traffic might be halted so there will be no collisions with persons looking at the spectacle. In any case, most car owners will want to see the eclipse and one cannot watch the road and the sun at the same time."Patrolman Kills Self on Street Car.

The Golden Bed

by WALLACE IRWIN

THIRTY-EIGHTH INSTALLMENT.

He reflected on this, saying nothing. The Juniper Street tenements had been empty since the City condemned them a year before. What was her game? She caught his glance and lowered her eyes before resuming the stilted monologue: "It's dingy, isn't it? I should think you'd have the factory all surrounded with flowerbeds and statues of Ceres. She's the goddess of hayrakes, you know."

"Did you come to see me?" he asked bluntly.

"Are you in as awful hurry?" she counter-questioned, looking at him with blank, smiling eyes. "If you aren't, I'd so love to drive around a spell."

"Fine!" He had several hours to waste before he could see Flora Lee again.

Saying little, they took their way through shabby streets, past Bradbury Downs and out toward the autumnal acres of River Park. Once in the woodlands he slowed his car, enjoying the bright color of maples, rich red and orange like the folds of a Paisley shawl.

"I did want to talk to you," she admitted at last, rousing him from his dream.

"What's been troubling you lately, Margaret?"

"Have I been silly?" she asked. "I didn't mean to be. Things got on my nerves."

"I've been thinking," he said, "you oughtn't to plug so hard on those darning drawings—excuse me, Margaret. They're right pretty—but why don't you take a layoff?"

"What else have I got to do?" It was one of the few complaints he had ever heard from her lips. "Admah," she tried again after a pause. "I don't think I know exactly what to say. Maybe it ought to be sort of poetical, the way you've laid the stones and all piling up a tower. You want to build it high and reach up—"

"What for? He was impressed by her changed tone.

"So you can hold a star in your hands, I think."

"Shucks," he muttered, embarrassed.

"That's just what I don't want it to be—shucks," she said softly. "Your work mustn't turn to shucks—food for pigs—the way ours has done. We're down where we deserve to be because we couldn't or wouldn't fight for what we had. But you've fought every inch of the way, Admah. That's what's fine about you. And—and there isn't a fighting bone left in the Peakes."

"Seems to me you've been putting up a mighty good scrap," he replied, strangely touched.

"I'm trying to learn what it's forgotten," she admitted, "and it's the best thing that could happen to me. But it's about you that I want to talk." She looked pensively down, ordering her thoughts into speaking form, then—"You mustn't spoil your life."

"How?" With the question he let his engine stall. Everything seemed to stand still as he regarded this girl with a mind so strangely burdened.

"Monkey-thoughts and dirty little shadows and imitation rainbows. When you get to playing with them you're gone. You've got to be yourself, Admah. Hold it, if you'll take care of what you've got—I don't mean the money so much as the character—you're bound to do a lot for yourself and the world you live in. There!"

"You think I'm in wrong some way. Some sort of dancer?" He ventured this as Alexander might have done before the oracle's thin vapors.

"You told me about a girl you once admired. A girl on Dutch Hill."

"Mabel Stok," he supplied.

"What would have happened—suppose you'd been a little older and getting on with your work—what would have happened if you'd married her?"

"I'd have gone to hell in a hurry—excuse me."

"I didn't know her," said Margaret in a throat of her voice. "But I knew—I know that the man who married her went to hell in a hurry. He was very fine, Admah, but that's what she did to him. And can't you see?"

"Her words fell away, and when he looked at her he was surprised at the hurt in her eyes.

"I can't see you go like that, Admah," he cried, suddenly and cutched his sleeve as if to save him from some demented act. It was full a minute before he gathered his wits and asked the direct question:

"Margaret, is it Flora Lee you mean?"

"I know I'm delirious." His face was set sternly on the road ahead. "Then you do mean Flora Lee," he decided gruffly.

"You mustn't!" She spoke rapidly now like one possessed by another's spirit, compelling speech. "She's never touched any man's life without ruining it. Look at poor Huntie O'Neill—he was a good clean boy when she first got hold of him. Look at half a dozen others—maybe they weren't worth her trouble, but she spoiled them just the same. And Sam Plar."

He would have interrupted her, but she shook her head impatiently and hurried on with her condemnation: "You mustn't want her. You mustn't. I'm not saying this because I don't love her. It's not her fault that she is the way she is. It's our rotten blood."

"What am I saying?" Admah . . .

Again she was motionless, staring

ing funny insults, kissing an old fellow on his bald spot.

That shocked Admah, but only vaguely. The Afterburys came in. He joined them in a cocktail, one too many, and had an impression of Mr. Canfield's rancid smile.

Admah wondered about a great deal, holding a fixed expression until his jaws stiffened with it. Somehow separate from his guests, he was amused to think of himself as the proprietor of Hester's, passing from table to table to see that everybody was being properly served. While young Samsa drank up his cocktails, refusing to dine while the drinks lasted, their host found himself stranded in corners or walking briskly from group to group, his eyes glassy-bright in pretense of recognizing a newcomer.

Vaguely at his shoulder he heard voices in discussion—it was at the door of the red room where the crowd was thickest.

"...and everybody who's been to Paris has heard about Savarac . . . when he gives a lady a tea-party or a pleasant look . . . And when he went to Spain to dodge the war he went right on . . . great collector in Europe!"

"See-see!" . . . a tenor voice responding. "Collector in good notice she hasn't bragged about him since she first got home from Spain!"

Admah turned suddenly to see two men, a tall one and a short one, flushed with amusing gossip. At sight of him they checked their mirth, as by tacit consent, and strode away into the red room. They hadn't wanted him to hear Savarac. They'd been talking about Flora Lee.

When at last the crowd began moving toward the tables and the saxophones struck up a diabolical blare he saw her coming toward him through the press, and because he could no longer feel surprise he was only mildly interested to note that she was leaning on the arm of Huntie O'Neill.

O'Neill. . . He was just another face, another item in the puzzle. Quite impersonally Admah studied his thickening jowls and sodden eyes. "He was a good, clean boy when she first got hold of him!"

Only God who seems to mold so much useless bric-a-brac. . . Why had he made O'Neill and so many more like him, to clutter up and go to a devil who, as an economist must resent such inferior fuel?

And who was this Savarac they been tittering about in a corner?

Then came Flora Lee's sweet voice at his elbow, and as her slim, naked arm led Huntie O'Neill, he was plain to see that the fellow liked it. He was actually smiling!

"You know Huntie, don't you?" she asked quite casually. The saxophones became urgently noisy and she fell into O'Neill's ready arms. "We're at the big table, Admah," she called out, her little feet already twinkling to the music.

AVOGUE FOR PLAIN CHIFFON

LEFT—A frock of painted chiffon by a French designer is edged with three tones of narrow ribbon.

RIGHT—One of the simple draped chiffon dresses heralded to make a brilliant success during the coming season.

Fluffy Material Takes the Lead for Evening Gowns and Affords Limitless Opportunities in Artistic Color Blendings.

By Margery Wells.

CHIFFON is the most becoming material for all feminine attire. And when it is used for a dress then it is prettiest of all. Of course there are many and various restrictions about the way in which it should be done, about the handling of the fabric, its proper distribution and so on. But when these rules are learned for the season in which the chiffon frock happens to be eminent, then the road is plain before one.

Paris has declared the chiffon frock the most fashionable of all—fitting dinner, for formal or informal evening parties, for afternoon tea made in simpler guise. The decree has gone forth that chiffon is the thing and Paris is proving by means of the dresses which within that little town that there is force and form to the mandate. The chiffon dress, indeed, is going strong. On this side of the water we have scarcely begun to realize the strength of this new style, but it is coming upon us just as surely as next Christmas is on the way, and those who like to be forehanded when providing clothes for their own wardrobe will do well to look ahead and realize the coming importance of the airy, fairy sort of dressing.

Now, the models that Paris is producing in the way of chiffon frocks are so simple that they almost defy description. All one can say is that they are simple enough to be quite plain. And then, when any expert reads that statement, it is time to realize that with the fineness of the material and the subtle way in which it must be handled to make it look like anything at all, simplicity in this connection is no small achievement. To make a plain piece of cotton fall in a plain, straight line is something that has baffled many a shark at dressmaking. Even to make a full and flaring line look as it should is a trick all by itself. So when we hear the news of the chiffon dress coming into vogue these days of us who understand and know cannot fail to see the difficulties lying before us. Those who are above the consideration of construction can only murmur "How fascinating, how lovely, how truly feminine and graceful!"

Simple in Line and Ornament.

Of course, there have been beaded chiffon dresses for many seasons past. But the new idea in chiffon dresses is not at all like that. These latter things are plain of surface, straight of line, absolutely uncompromising in the simplicity of their design, and in most cases altogether devoid of trimming. Their edges are cleverly bound and finished by hand in various ways, but their surfaces are left without interruption in any sense.

Last season it was the thick satin frock that counted most, and it was done in black almost without exception. That was one kind of simplicity. This is another, and one that is so different from the satin effect that the two can hardly be counted in the same class. And it was in Paris last year at this time, when the satin dress was at its height of popularity there, that Violet and Premet and some others of the more advanced designers began to declare that satin was all past and gone as a style, and that chiffon would take its place. This looked too radical to the masses, even in Paris. And yet the mandate they set forth has had the usual subtle influence of such rulings, and in a year's time the style has come to be a recognized and accepted thing, while they, no doubt, are going on with other and newer ideas.

We in America have just opened our eyes to behold the importance of the chiffon dress. At the debutante balls the girls are wearing them here and there with good effect and the fashion papers have begun to tell of their charms and graces. Now for a development of the style in our own American way. The French designers themselves have said that it takes the American girl to set off their clothes as no other female can manage to do. Then, here is a new style to which she can add her grace and the stunning lines of her figure.

Wonderful Color Effects.

Now, since we have taken to color with such a flare of appreciation the chiffon frock comes along to offer us a new means of development in that direction. With the aid of the habit of using chiffon in various grades of layers the most interesting series of color effects can be obtained. At the place where four layers are used there will be a depth of color that is not obtainable at all where but one layer is made use of. Then, between where three layers and two are shown there are interesting effects not gained by the other two. You can see that in this way a chiffon frock of the plainest appearance will take on a divergence of tone and quality which defies all sorts of possible trimming creating an effect.

One gown of chiffon was made in the tubular chemise effect which is so popular just now. Its color was blue. But upon examination it was found to have three layers of the thin fabric used in the making, each layer being a slightly different tone from the others. These underneath were the darker ones, and the lightest in tone, lying on the top, took on a frailty and a divergence of color that was elusive, to say the least. Then the importance of this gown, of course, lay in its line and in the subtlety of its color. A few sparkling jewels worn with it would be enough to make it noticeable in the extreme.

Another chiffon gown of this latest era was made with a straight and tightly fitted top reaching to the length of the average long tunic. The color was green and this top portion was one layer of the delicate green chiffon over a thick crepe satin. Then at the point where the tunic ended there was attached a circular flounce of the same green chiffon in many layers. The flounce was not only circular, but it was gathered also, and there seemed to be two or three layers of the fabric so that there was even so much fullness massed at that one place. Of course, it gave the most graceful possible effect when the wearer walked about, which, after all, was the whole idea of the design of the dress and that being the case, the clever designer let her art stop right there and did not add anything to add to the beauty of the gown.

Beautiful effects are gained by some designers by using the chiffon dyed in graduated shades—umber chiffons they are called. These are especially lovely for the draped and flounced dresses as the material waves about the shadings and gradations of tone have much more of a chance to show prettily.

White chiffon dresses are extremely lovely for the youthful maidens and those women of older years who are blessed with freshness of complexion. Then there is the blend shading which some people call "natural." They are very good for this sort of dress and the ones in silver gray as well as those in mauve and orchid shades are particularly good to look at.

The fact is that once you begin to think out this chiffon problem you will find all sorts of new ideas occurring to you and you will be able to develop styles from the sheer fabric which will be suited to your individual tastes and charms. Whatever your favorite color may be, it will stand development along the new lines of chiffon interpretation.

Discarded Blades.

Broken needles and used safety razor blades should never be thrown away promiscuously. One woman keeps a tin coffee can in her bathroom closet for this purpose and when it is full the entire can is thrown away with the lid pressed down securely. Then there is no danger of harm coming to people going through the trash.

The Fruit Cake.

If possible keep the fruit cake wrapped in a napkin that has been saturated with brandy or wine and then tightly enclosed in a tin box. In this way the longer you keep the cake the better it will be. But it must be kept wrapped and covered to keep it moist and good for it dries out very quickly.

Secure Packing.

Today's Thing

Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the letter in the word. Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or from top to bottom (vertical), according to position. Lettered in correctly, the cross will interlock.

Each number in the white squares also refers to a letter in the accompanying table. Each definition suggests a word possessing the same letters to fit the white space allotted to it.

Washing Rag Rugs.

When laundering rag rugs, rinse them in a thin starch instead of plain water. They will wrinkle less and keep clean longer, two very helpful items.

Three Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

Where Men and Women Still Live in Caves.

THE days of cave-dwellers, or troglodytes, are not yet over. For in the Ourghammas plateau of the Tunisian desert, the natives dwell in this primitive form of habitation.

Their homes are in the side of the great mountain. For streets they have the various shelves of the mountain. Low, ill-fitting doors lead into the rock itself, and windows are completely unknown. The only light that penetrates to the interior of these dwellings is what makes its way around the edges and cracks of the door.

The furnishing of these homes is not much more elaborate than the outer structure. There may be a high, shelf-like bed, and then again there may be only a mat to sleep on. Empty bottles and tin cans may adorn the walls as curios. The dishes, few and primitive as they are, also hang about the walls.

Goat raising is the chief occupation of these people and they carry it on in a sort of community way. The animals are herded together in the valleys and in the evening are driven up the steep grade by the children. The goats seem to know their way home and frequently enter their master's home without guidance.

The homes of these troglodytes are about 20 feet long, eight feet high and eight feet wide. They use one stratum or rock as a floor and the one above as a ceiling. Then they dig into the comparatively soft interior of the rock to form this interior. The walls are usually cemented and whitewashed and the ceilings form perfect vaulted arches.

Some of the homes consist of several rooms of the same dimensions, either opening out from the main room or having several entrances. Light is provided by means of crude oil lamps. They are simply olive oil and a wick placed in a hollow scooped out in a nick in the wall. There are no chairs in this town and only in the house of the Sheikh does one find a table.

USING UP THE LEFT-OVERS

By Hannah Wing

An Authority on Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

NOT a scrap of chicken or turkey need ever be wasted. No left-over meat possesses more possibilities for re-service in more attractive ways. In fact, these made-over or "let-down" dishes are so savory and delicious that they rival the original serving of the roast fowl.

Here are a few of the many luncheon, supper or entree dishes which may be made from cold chicken or turkey: Croquettes, soufflé, timbales and omelets. Used as a filling for Swedish timbale cases, patties of puff paste or pastry shells baked over small tins, these creamed meats are considered great delicacies.

With celery and nuts, or with peas and celery, either cold roast chicken or turkey makes delicious salads.

More unusual ways of serving cold chicken are creamed on toast with a poached egg or in a biscuit mixture as a chicken roll. Creamed chicken served with a border of curried rice is almost as well-known a dish as club sandwich.

Vegetables, such as string beans, peas or asparagus tips, may be served with very finely shredded chicken or turkey heated with them. In apple or tomato jelly cooked chicken or turkey is used with finely cut boiled celery which has been chilled.

As a sandwich filling one of the best in a combination of the left-over roast with chopped ham or nuts.

The last of the bird makes an excellent chicken gumbo soup or broth with whipped cream.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

The Great Storm

The thrifty seldom know distress
When hunger doth the thriftless press.
—Old Mother Nature.

It didn't start like a great storm. It started very gently. A few snowflakes came floating down. None of the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows was at all worried about it. But more and more came floating down, and presently the air was so filled with them that one could see but a very short distance. Then rough Brother North Wind began to blow. Harder and harder he blew. He drove those snowflakes hissing through the branches of the trees in the Green Forest and whirling in clouds over the Green Meadows.

It was no time to get out and about. All the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows stayed in their homes or found snug shelters and there waited for the storm to pass. But the snow kept on falling, and rough Brother North Wind kept on blowing. The great storm lasted all night. It lasted all the next day. It lasted all the night following. No one could get out to look for food.

It was then that the thrifty rejoiced in their thrift. The Squirrel cousins didn't go hungry. Of course they had plenty of food stored right where they could get it. Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse and Whitefoot the Wood Mouse didn't mind the storm, for they also had food stored away. Besides, they could tunnel about through the snow. Paddy the Beaver and Mrs. Beaver and Jerry Muskrat didn't even know there emptier. Several times they tried to get out to hunt for something to eat, but the storm drove them back.

Reddy and Mrs. Fox and Old Man Coyote were no better off. Neither was Shadow the Weasel. Neither was Hooty the Great Horned Owl, nor his cousin Whitey the Snowy Owl, nor Terror the Goshawk, nor Bob White and his family, nor Mr. and Mrs. Grouse, nor Tommy Tit the Chickadee, nor Drummer the Woodpecker, nor Blacky the Crow, nor Sammy Jay. They hadn't minded the great storm at first. But as it continued as if it never would end and their stomachs became wholly empty they began to suffer. Some of them began to grow weak with hunger. The feathered folk knew that if they could get up to Farmer Brown's house Farmer Brown's boy would have food spread for them. But they couldn't get up there. They couldn't go out in that dreadful storm.

So most of the little people were prisoners in their homes or shelters, and only the thrifty ones were free from suffering, the thrifty ones and the sleepers.

Separate Skirts Back Again

FOR a time it looked as though separate skirts had gone out of existence, but they are gradually gaining popularity again. They are being made up in a variety of styles. The wrap-around and pleated side-panel skirts seem to predominate. Pretty plaid woolen materials are being used for mid-winter styles and luxurious silks for spring models.

4 out of 5 are victims

These are the odds you fight in the battle against Pyorrhea. Four out of every five over 40—as well as thousands of younger people—are afflicted with this sinister disease. Will you be a victim?

He "tooth and lost"

Old before but time—her mouth!

Protect your gums and save your teeth

Just as a ship needs the closest attention under the water-line, so do your teeth under the gum-line. If the gums shrink, serious dangers result.

The teeth are loosened. They are exposed to tooth-base decay. The gums themselves become tender and bleed easily. They form sacs which become the doorways of organic disease for the whole system. They often disfigure the mouth as they recede.

Prevent Pyorrhea with Forhan's

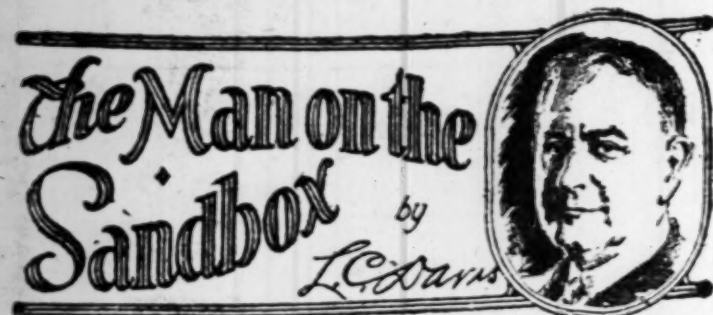

If used in time and used consistently, Forhan's will prevent or check its progress. Forhan's is safe, efficient and pleasant-tasting. It preserves gum health, corrects tender gums, hardens gum tissues so they will offer proper support to the teeth, and keeps your mouth fresh and healthy.

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

And, of the human traits, they seem
To have a large assortment.

From them evolved the human

If so, those monkeys at the Zoo

A Governor has been accused Of convict pardon selling.
How much his power he abused
There is no way of telling.
The wisdom of the law we doubt.
When, free and unrestricted,
A Governor can turn them out
As fast as they're convicted.

There'll be a State survey of crime
Some time in February.
When everything will be sublime
And absolutely merry.
When crooks begin to form a line
For someone to survey them.
The people can go out to dine
With no one to waylay them.

EFFICIENT CHECK ON BANKS URGED

Senate Committee Is No
Working on State Fun-Deposits Touched Up in Report.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 14.
Legislation to require a more efficient means of checking up value of securities and perso-bonds deposited by banks with State, to safeguard deposits
State money, is suggested by Legislative Auditing Committee pointed by Gov. Hyde to audit accounts and condition of all departments, in its report filed day with the Legislature.
A Senate committee now is conducting an investigation into the adequacy of securities
State deposits tied up failed banks, and is seeking to determine to what extent check was made of the actual value of these securities when they were accepted by the Governor, Attorney-General and State Treasurer.
The report also discloses that business methods are practiced many departments of the State government, particularly in the posting of department funds banks without interest or secu-against loss. In many instances is stated, this State money is posted in the name of an individual, rather than under the name of the department. Failure of departments to show an itemized accounting of money received cash sales and failure to take advantage of cash discounts on purchases of bills is shown in the report.

Business of the State is becoming more complicated and expense the report continues, throughout a uniform accounting system. In fact, it is stated, a number of departments keep no classified order of expenditures, relying on State Auditor to do all of the bookkeeping.
The Auditing Committee, comprising Senator James S. Sumner (Rep.), of Kansas City; Representative P. B. Meyers (Rep.), of St.
Mo., and Representative George Player (Dem.), of Westphalia, appointed by Gov. Hyde last summer, as required by law, make the audit of all departments. The period covered is from Jan.
1923, to Dec. 31 last.
From lack of time the committee did not make an exhaussive audit and examination of all accounts, and confined its work largely to checking the various books, warrants, vouchers and orders. The committee did not audit the educational, elementary or penal institutions, except the penitentiary.

Bank Deposit Securities.
Discussing securities for bank deposits, the report points out that the law requires the Treasurer, Attorney-General and State Auditor to let the State money on deposit to banks on these deposits to be secured loss by a bond equal to at least one per cent of the deposit and interest on the deposit and securities not less than one per cent of the amount equal to the amount of deposit. Under the law, it is stated, it would appear that the authority to pass on the value of the securities rests with the Treasurer and Attorney-General.
The Legislative Committee
clined to go into the solvent the surety bonds, or the value of the real estate securities in-hands of the State Treasurer safeguard deposits, but states in some instances notes secured by real estate apparently were valued for more than the maximum fixed by law of 50 per cent of value of the real estate. A total of $44,000 in commercial security should be discarded.
Real Estate Rates and Fees.
The committee reports it was not able to determine whether State Treasurer accepted real estate notes with the approval of Attorney-General at their
